

Lions Given Definition Of Code Of Ethics

A definition of the ethics of Lionism, based on the letters in the word "build", was given the Newmarket Lions club on Monday night by the visiting district governor, Dick Edmunds, of Richmond Hill.

Mr. Edmunds made his choice of the word from the line in the Lions Code of Ethics "to build and not destroy." The "b" referred to brotherhood, he said. The "u" and "i" to the job ahead of each of us; the "l" to loyalty and the "d" to a definite job ahead of club members in establishing a Christian world.

Mr. Edmunds was warmly received. He has been a popular visitor in the past. He was introduced by John Meyer and thanked by Fred S. Thompson who also made a presentation to him on behalf of the club.

The club members discussed the annual carnival. Alternative suggestions of several bingos in the arena and other ways of raising funds were discussed but when the question was voted on, the club favored the usual carnival and draw on the first night and a bingo on the second night.

IS IN HOSPITAL

Bruce Hillaby is in York County hospital recovering from an appendectomy operation on Tuesday.

JOINS CLINIC

Dr. William B. Phair, a specialist in medicine, has joined the Newmarket Clinic. Dr. Phair's work is concerned with the diagnosis and treatment of heart, chest and other internal diseases.

The son of Dr. J. T. Phair, Deputy Minister of Health for Ontario, he graduated from the University of Toronto in 1940 and interned at St. Michael's Hospital. Since his return from military service, he has been on the staff of the Weston Sanatorium. He completed his postgraduate work in 1951.

The staff of the clinic now consists of two specialists, Dr. Phair in medicine, and Dr. Ritchie in surgery. Dr. Lowell Dales has resumed his position as chief of the clinic and continues to do general practice. Dr. John Dales, while still doing general practice, is in charge of obstetrics and paediatrics. He is also the anaesthetist for the clinic.

More Needed For Blood Bank, Call 815 For Test Appointment

More Newmarket people are needed to put their names on a list to supply York County hospital with a much needed blood bank.

An effort is being made to form a new registration of 200 donors in a Newmarket Blood Bank for the hospital. Registration, testing and typing blood from volunteers will start next Tuesday and it will take eight weeks to register 200 donors every Tuesday and Thursday nights.

When the list of 200 donors is completed, an individual donor will not be asked to give blood to the bank more than once a year, but the large number will ensure a continued supply to the blood bank at all times.

This is what Newmarket citizens are asked to do: Phone 815, the Newmarket Clinic, and make an appointment for testing and typing blood. Be sure to keep your appointment. Be prepared to donate blood when called. Testing and typing will be done by Newmarket doctors, assisted by a nurse from the hospital each Tuesday and Thursday night between 7.30 p.m. and 9.30 p.m. Each volunteer will be given a card with his name and type of blood marked on it. When the blood bank registration of 200 is completed, Newmarket will have a useful "walking blood bank" to ensure the lives of injured or sick persons at the hospital.

Each donor may be ensuring his own life or the life of a friend or relative by offering his blood to this blood bank.

Dr. J. G. Cock, chairman of the Newmarket Blood Bank committee says, "Now there are many more uses for blood and this calls for more members. It is too great a task for one group or organization to handle and we need the help of the townspeople."

STARTED 1914, QUEENSVILLE FAMILY STORE STILL SERVES AT NEW LOCATION

A real general store is Burkholder's at Queensville, which has been serving the people of Queensville and district farmers under the present ownership for 38 years. Burkholder's recently vacated a 60-year old frame building and moved next door to the old Queen's Hotel building, where there is more space and a brighter location.

Taught School For 22 Years, In General Store For 38 Years

In 1914 a school teacher at Queensville public school gave up his profession to start in the general store business. Today, at 84, W. A. Burkholder still looks out over the counter at the same business and takes a grocery order from a familiar customer.

Born in Vaughan township in 1869, W. A. Burkholder taught at various schools in Ontario and took a position at the Queensville public school in 1911. In all, he taught school for 22 years. That's long enough to call it a completed career but since he gave up teaching he has been in business for 38 years, at the same stand.

"I feel just as spry as when I started out," said Mr. Burkholder. And he looks it too, showing no signs of even being 10 years from his actual age.

Mr. Burkholder says that his son Bill has taken over business now but Bill senior is still around the store keeping his eye on things. Burkholder's store has been moved recently into a new location at the former Queen's hotel building. The old frame store building next door is being renovated.

Although the first building is 50 years old, it is believed that there has been a store at the same location for 100 years. The first one was destroyed by fire. The frame building was put up by Bill Anderson, according to Mr. Burkholder. "I took over the store in 1914 from Frank Smith who lives in Toronto now," he said.

The present location in the Queen's Hotel building which was given up as a hotel a good many years ago, is a brick corner building and gives a good deal more space for Burkholder's general store.

When it comes to daily needs, you can buy just about anything you can think of at Burkholder's. The store has been serving the community for 38 years and it looks as if it will go on serving the Queensville district with the same family name for years to come.

SOC. FEARS OFFER MISUNDERSTOOD

Fear that their offer was misunderstood was voiced by officials of the North York Humane Society this week. The society has offered to take care of the dog nuisance in Newmarket in return for a $2,000 grant to help finance the cost of the building of a dog pound, and the revenue from dog licenses to finance future operations.

The offer was turned down by council last week.

"We require the $2,000 grant for only the one year," said Mrs. Marie Askew, president. The money would be used to supplement society funds in the construction of a dog pound. "The revenue from the dog licenses in subsequent years would be adequate for our operational costs."

She pointed out that until there was a dog pound, Newmarket had no authority to license dogs.

EASTER SERVICE

A simple Easter service was held at the York County Home on Easter Sunday afternoon. PRESIDENT RECEIVES NEWMARKET ROTARY CLUB'S CHARTER

James S. Law, president of the newly formed Rotary Club of Newmarket, receives the club charter from Rotary District Governor Ken Partridge, left, of the Port Credit club at a charter night dinner held at the Newmarket Legion Hall Tuesday night. The Newmarket club was sponsored by the Rotary Club of Aurora. Visiting Rotarians came from as far away as Sudbury and Timmins.

New Rotary Club Of Newmarket Makes Debut

Newmarket's third service organization, the Rotary Club, received its charter at a banquet in the Legion Hall Tuesday night, attended by over 100 Rotarians and guests from various parts of Ontario.

Sponsored by the Rotary Club of Aurora, the new club received a hearty introduction to the Rotary circle by Burt Gilbert, Aurora, who was chairman of the meeting and Rotarians from other Ontario clubs, including Toronto, Sudbury, Timmins, Huntsville and Haliburton.

President of the new club is James S. Law; vice-president, Dr. C.E. Vandervoort; secretary, Harold F. Eaton; and treasurer, Alan Cossar. Directors are Jas. Otton, J. L. R. Bell and Isha Goodman.

Guest speaker was John G. Parker of the Rotary Club of Toronto who spoke of Rotary as an international organization of goodwill. There are 7,447

Rotary clubs in the world in 83 different geographical regions. But in particular, the speaker was concerned with goodwill and unity in Canada, to which, he said, Rotarians can make a fine contribution.

"Many years ago a westerner said: 'You big moguls in Ontario are bleeding the west,' and he usually said it with a smile," said Mr. Parker. "Today he is not as apt to have a smile on his face when he says it," the speaker said.

"In a discussion about confederation, a Newfoundland man told a story of a person who said that he did not know what happiness was until he got married and then it was too late. That was his comment on confederation," said Mr. Parker. Maritimers say they can't trade with the rest of Canada and there has been ill feeling about Quebec, he said. Conscription

Municipalities Will Meet, Discuss Plight Of Hospital Finances

Representatives from township councils and other municipalities which send patients to York County hospital will be meeting at Sharon next Monday night to discuss the hospital's serious financial position and a request to give financial aid. Instigated by East Gwillimbury and Whitchurch townships, the meeting will be held at the East Gwillimbury township offices at Sharon.

While the hospital board is concerned about some township councillors questioning the cost of over nine dollars a day for an indigent patient, it is expected that the municipalities will not turn down a request for financial aid. The hospital has a bank overdraft of more than $40,000.

The municipalities which send patients to the hospital are being asked to share in covering an $11,000 loss last year. It was suggested that they make grants in proportion to the number of patients from each municipality during the year.

Newmarket has already decided to make a $2,600 grant which will be one of the largest. Newmarket council representatives have been asked to attend the meeting Monday.

J. L. Smith, clerk of the township of East Gwillimbury, was asked by his council to call up

Poultry Farmers Vote Next Three Days On Proposed Market Plan

Poultry raisers in the district are asked to vote in the next three days on the formation of a Poultry Producers Marketing Association. The vote is taken under provincial marketing legislation and parallels similar recent votes for a milk marketing scheme, and the formation of a hog producers association.

If the poultry producers favor the association, it is expected that some regulation and control over poultry growing can be implemented. At the present time, there are indications of a heavy surplus in eggs with exports down 50,000 cases in the first three months of the year.

One of the first acts of the poultry producers' association, if authorized by the vote, would be to remove some of this surplus from the market and so maintain the price, according to Bert Palmer, King, one of the organizers of the vote.

The vote is being sponsored by the Federation of Agriculture.

The vote is part of the government-encouraged trend towards the management of their own affairs by the producers of all farm commodities. Through such an association, it is believed that the egg market can be stabilized, that more markets can be found for eggs, and by the establishment of an up-to-date information service on the number of chick hatchings, over production can be avoided.

"The poultry industry is facing a serious crisis," said Mr. Palmer, who, with other organizers, has been addressing a series of meetings of poultry growers throughout the county. "The U.S. market has declined as production there has increased. Money barriers have cost us our U.K. market. The result is a heavy decline in exports of eggs and the build-up of a surplus of eggs in Canada."

Poultry growers would be assessed a cent a dozen eggs to finance the scheme. "With this money, we will be able to remove surpluses from the market this year. Next year, by means of an up-to-date information service, egg production can be limited to what the market will stand," said Mr. Palmer.

Voting dates are today, Friday and Saturday, April 18 and 19, over the age of 21 years. Eggs in 1951 or plan to produce in 1952, can vote. One vote for each hen.

The vote will be taken by mail. The vote will be counted at 9 p.m.

District Governor Ken Partridge of the Port Credit club presented the charter to President James S. Law. Other speakers were Harry E. Seston, secretary of the Aurora club, and Newmarket's Mayor Joseph Vale. Rev. Henry Cotton of the Peterborough club, formerly of Newmarket, was a guest.

Andy Mordison, entertainer of the evening, with Harry Lauder memories and attire, sang Scottish songs and told Scotch stories with warmth, sentiment and humor.

HISTORY OF BELHAVEN
By Mrs. Lloyd Kay
The following history, in two parts, is taken from a paper by Mrs. Kay which was read before Belhaven Women's Institute.

In the following account I shall relate the history of Belhaven according to the information I have. If anyone is able to add anything to this history, I can be reached at Box 13, Belhaven, and would appreciate any further material.

This history concerns chiefly Belhaven and the immediate vicinity, but it is almost impossible to give this account without also giving a brief survey of the township as a whole. The settling of North Gwillimbury began around 1801, when the first land was given to J. Osburn, and by 1821 the population was 272. Sixty years later it had increased to 2,304, because of immigration from the Old Country by the United Empire Loyalists, and by births, with a total of 334 land owners.

Until 1826 North Gwillimbury and Georgina were united under one council, with representatives from both townships. The first council elected to our own township were: wardens, Joel Draper and David Mann; assessor, Silas Ems; collector, John Prosser; clerk, Arad Smalley. These names are familiar to us, as many of their descendants still reside here.

In 1850 the municipal council was altered to include reeve and councillors. The first meeting was held in Keswick school with the following men holding office: Isaac Bennett, first reeve; John Prosser, Arad Sheppard, John Morton and David Sprague, councillors; and Richard Sheppard, clerk. Meetings were held in Keswick until 1868, when they were moved to Belhaven, and have been held there ever since.

In 1885 a new council came into power; the names of the members are still well-known throughout the community: Reeve, R. M. VanNorman; deputy-reeve, David Sprague; councillors, Stephen Winch, Joe Davidson and John Boag; clerk, Henry Bennett; treasurer, Elijah Prosser; and assessor, Ellis Sheppard. Over half the above elected resided in or near Belhaven.

At one time Roche's Point, considered the capital of Ontario, was called Keswick, and Keswick was called Dug Hill. However, when the post office was moved to its present location, the name went with it.

Early Settlers

But now to get back to our own history. Just below the hill where Percy Woods resides, a man by the name of Nathan Gager lived, and he always wore a plug hat. Because of this fact, and the fact that the village was on a hill, it was known as Plug Mount.

Some time later, the Williams came to Canada from Ireland. The country was so wild then that they blazed a trail from Toronto up Yonge Street to the farm now occupied by Erwin Winch. These pioneers were the great-grandparents of the Winch family, and the farm has been in their family ever since. Not liking the name Plug Mount, they named it Belhaven, after a little Irish town meaning "beautiful haven of rest".

As we all know, Belhaven is now composed chiefly of dwelling houses, a store, a hall, a church and a garage. At one time it was a village of many industries. At the north end of the town, where Norman Kay lives, was a chopping mill run by a steam engine and operated by Mr. Reed. Later Irwin Hamilton bought it and remodelled it into the present dwelling. He, in turn, sold to Perry Morton, who was well-known in this district.

The first blacksmith in Belhaven was Myron Silver, who had his shop on the lot where Selby Fairbairn lives. Later, this was sold to Jesse Connell, who sold buggies. Mr. Stogdill helped him in the blacksmith shop. Selby Fairbairn remodelled the house by raising and adding a store to it.

The house where Lloyd Kay lives was built by Albert Dafee, so well-known for his part in church work. Of this I will write later. He was a wheelwright, and did woodwork such as making sleighs, fixing wagons and so forth. His daughter married Mr. Glancy, who built the house now occupied by Norman King. When he built, he mortgaged the house for $800, and that was never paid off until Mr. King bought the property about eight years ago. Mr. Glancy did blacksmith work for years.

Mr. Thomas Stogdill was the next occupant, and also did blacksmithing for years. He was famous throughout the community for the peppermints he carried in his pockets, and for his whistle as he walked up street. Mrs. Stogdill was everybody's nurse. So much had she done for the Stephen Winch family, that they gave her the home now occupied by Norman King - rent free as long as she lived. About 27 years ago, a garage was built by Stanley Latham, where the blacksmith shop stood. Local Landmarks

At one time the house now occupied by Mr. Wilkinson was a store. In 1875 Neil Morton purchased it from Dan Prosser, who then turned to preaching and became one of the leading ministers in the Ontario Christian church. Neil Morton in turn sold to John Prosser, who converted the store into a dwelling.

The north store where Lealand Nelson lives was first operated by Mr. Sourby, then Mr. Gilpin. Here Herb Winch had a little girl burned to death when her dress caught fire.

George Cowieson, who also was a blacksmith, lived where Emery Willoughby now does.

In 1878 Neil Morton purchased an acre of land from Stephen Winch, and built a store and dwelling for $1,000. This clearly indicates the greatly-increased cost in the price of building since then. Later, his son Howard carried on his father's business, and in turn sold to Norman Yorkie, who now lives at Baldwin.

New Township Hall

The building in which Ira Woods lives was the old hotel shed, and above was the hall in which council meetings, political meetings, dances and so forth were held until the place was condemned as unfit for public meetings. Then, in 1927, the fine township hall was built and of this all are justly proud.

Just south of the shed stood the hotel. It was built by Mr. Bovair. Welby Culverwell also kept the hotel there. Then in 1895 the building was destroyed by fire but soon rebuilt. During the time Ken Humphreys was keeping the hotel, local opinion was declared and he lost his license for open bar. He, in turn, sold to Wm. Smith, who occupied it until recent years. About 14 years ago it was converted into a store by Charles Fairbairn, but in 1940, during Mr. Underhill's time, it was again destroyed by fire. Frank Culverwell has hanging in his home one of the mirrors from the first hotel.

The Sunday School

The building which held the greatest memories for the author, no longer stands. It was the little red Sunday school which was torn down and built into a dwelling house in Jackson's Point about 1942. The Belhaven Sunday school was established in 1890 in the hall over the hotel shed. Washington Winch and Albert Dafee were instrumental in getting the school started.

As the hall had been used for dances, council meetings and public meetings, Neil Morton, the storekeeper, swept that building each Saturday and started fires when necessary. Mr. Winch was the first superintendent of this school and Mr. Dafee an able assistant. The Sunday school teachers who helped with organization were Mrs. Walker Prosser, Mrs. Neil Morton, Mr. Stephen Winch, Mrs. Jesse Connell and Misses Maude and Evelyn Morton, and each contributing much to make the school a success.

The hall was later built in 1894 as an undenominational school, and also used for Christian Endeavour in the evening. The land was given free by Mr. Stephen Winch, and the work carried on successfully by that same group of workers.

JACK SMITH WRITES
Ottawa Letter
A weekly letter from the member of parliament for York North.

Peace is costly in this cold-war world. National Security and Social Security are the two objectives in considerable measure responsible for the large figures in Canada's budget presented here Tuesday evening.

A year ago Finance Minister Douglas Abbott held out no hope of being able to reduce in 1952 the high tax rates which as a result of the darkening international scene he was then imposing. He indicated, in fact, that Canadians would be fortunate if the taxation line could be held.

Last week he concluded his budget speech with the remark that as things turned out "we have been able to do a little better than we expected. We have not introduced any increase in tax rates and we have been able to make some downward adjustments."

On the whole the budget had few surprises. It represents the levelling off and the slight recession of the taxation upward trend which began to be felt after Korea. Canadians see in this budget a faint gleam of brighter days to come.

Householders have welcomed the reduction in excise taxes on washing machines, stoves and refrigerators. The sales tax has been abolished in wire used in balers which will mean a saving to farmers.

The finance minister intimated that the present credit restrictions are under review and some relaxing of regulations seems likely before very long.

The finance minister's review of general conditions throughout Canada showed the country to be in a state of unexampled prosperity. It estimated the 1951 gross national product, that is, the market value of all the goods and services produced in Canada during the year, at $21,241,000,000.

World Assistance

My mail recently has contained suggestions that probably Canada should do more by way of extending economic aid to less fortunate countries of the world. I think it is well for us to pause and take stock of what we have done and it amounts to a surprisingly large total.

The amounts Canada has provided in various forms of economic aid since the war, that is from the fiscal year 1945-46 up to and including the year 1951-52, total $2,403 million. This includes $1,753 million in the form of credits to Europe. Post war military relief amounts to $95 million. By way of contributions to United Nations relief and rehabilitation agencies and assistance programs it amounts to $203 million. In connection with the Colombo Plan the figure is $25,300,000, and to NATO up to the present time by way of mutual aid and other contributions the figure $324,800,000. There was too, an emergency gift of

Pages from the Editor's Notebook

Canadians reversed the usual procedure over the Easter weekend and instead of playing host to the visiting Americans, donned their best duds and flocked to the States in the comparatively unaccustomed role of guests. And what is most delightful about this fact is that the visits were encouraged by the superior level of the Canadian dollar, currently two cents more valuable than the U.S. dollar.

Nothing has so encouraged the burgeoning spirit of Canadian nationalism than the phenomenal rise of the Canadian dollar. Even if we aren't too sure of the why's and wherefore's of currency standards, the fact that our dollar is now superior to that of our neighbor is a source of lasting joy and not a little smugness.

We were told, however, by travellers from this district that the people in the States are not yet convinced of the worth of Canadian money and still regard it with some suspicion. Ah well. We can afford to be generous. After all, the revitalized dollar is proof of all the virtues we have somewhat self-consciously proclaimed in the past, as well as license for all our faults.

And while we are in the realms of high finance, we remark here upon the fines collection at Monday night's Lions club meeting. Fines are levied on members for all manner of infringements, real and imagined, the total contributing towards the club's welfare work. Monday's fines totalled $2.42 plus one blue button.

Needless to say, the button

has provoked serious speculation.

We see by the morning newspaper news of serious import. There is some fear that Vancouver Island's famed sea monster may be dead. A fisherman hauled ashore an elephant seal weighing a ton or so and 14 feet long. It just may be that this is Cadborosaurus (Caddy for short), that has been Vancouver's stock in trade for the last several years.

However, regardless of the identity of the monster, we are sure that Caddy will persist in the folk lore of the west coast. For one thing, Caddy's supporters will insist that their sea monster would never be such a piddling size. Only one ton. Heavens.

And the detractors will say... but then, there are no detractors of Caddy on the west coast. All consider themselves best friends and fellow soul mates of the beast, whatever it is. But just in case the elephant seal is the sea monster so many have claimed to see, the westerners are not completely at loss. There's still said to be a monster by the name of Ogopogo in the Okanagan Lakes.

Over in England, we see that a woman teacher applied for a football referee's license but was turned down. The football association wasn't having any.

We don't want women controlling men on the sporting field, the objection went. They control us at home.

At last, a blow struck for the equality of the male sex.

A smart social function of last week was Mrs. J. E. Hollingshead's tea on Friday afternoon, which was attended by more than 100 ladies. The house was prettily decorated with spring flowers, the tea room being especially gay in a color scheme of rose and orchid. Mrs. William Dillane of Aurora received with the hostess.

There is quite a lot of talk in favor of daylight saving in town for July and August.

An interesting event took place on Friday at the residence of Mr. Albert Stephens, on the second concession of Whitchurch, when the centenary of the acquisition of the property of the grandfather of the present owner in 1802 was fitly celebrated. A large number of friends gathered to take part in the ceremonies. Mr. and Mrs. Stephens received a number of gifts, among them being a handsome easy chair and an address, from their children.

A very satisfactory meeting of the directors of the North York Fall Fair was held in the fire hall last Monday afternoon, when a large portion of the prize list was revised, and a special committee appointed to complete the work.

The Newmarket Baseball club and supporters are requested to attend a meeting for election of officers and general business in the fire hall on Wednesday night.

THURSDAY, THE SEVENTEENTH DAY OF APRIL, NINETEEN HUNDRED AND FIFTY-TWO

CONFLICT IN CAMPAIGNS

The Newmarket Red Cross campaign for funds has not yet reached its objective of $4,500. The Ontario Society for Crippled Children Easter Seal campaign, sponsored locally by the Newmarket Lions, has not reached last year's total. We do not have national or provincial figures on these funds so that there is no way of knowing whether Newmarket is an exception or simply a reflection of a larger picture.

We are pretty sure, however, that one difficulty has been the conflict in dates of the two campaigns. Confronted with a request for help from two worthy organizations within a few days of each other, the contributor was more inclined to split his original contribution between the two than he was to double it.

But that is not the whole story. Within a few weeks, the Salvation Army, another worthy organization, will begin its annual appeal for funds, and after it, who knows what other groups, both national and local, all of them worthwhile, will present their requirements to the public.

We know that national organizations determine the dates for their campaigns for funds by factors of little importance to Newmarket and district. Fund organizers must concern themselves with the larger picture. But the fact remains, as long as there is a conflict in dates or a too frequent appeal, all funds are going to suffer.

What is the answer? We do not know. A form of special tax has been suggested, with the government turning over the total for division among public service organizations. Some large firms with-hold from the weekly pay-cheques of their employees a sum of the employee's choice for such contributions. Many funds are grouped within the Community Chest. There are other possibilities. None of them, however, are generally applicable; all of them have some fault which makes them a second choice to present methods.

In Newmarket itself, there are almost weekly appeals of one sort or another for local projects. It is a constant drain which in time becomes irritating. While it might be impractical to attempt any sort of local regulation of provincial and national campaigns for funds, certainly some form of regulation could be worked out for local funds. We would suggest a local community chest with one annual campaign. It would not be difficult to set an objective which would include all actual and potential appeals; additionally, such a fund would serve as an emergency fund for unexpected requirements.

CANADIAN GOVERNOR-GENERAL

Canada's first native-born governor-general is comfortably installed in Rideau Hall and has even been photographed in color by Life Magazine so that unofficial endorsement of the United States may be considered granted. But the questions raised by the appointment are still unsettled. The King branch of the Women's Institute at a recent meeting passed a resolution in which was voiced the fear that the appointment of a Canadian may become simply a political appointment and nothing more.

There is, unfortunately, some basis for this doubt. The appointments of lieutenant-governors by the provinces have not always been made outside the political arena. Human nature being what it is, it is too much to hope for that the federal appointment will continue to be an exception.

For all of that, England's choice of governors-general has not always been a happy one. But then, the prestige of the throne was never higher, nor were the members of the Royal family more secure in the affections of their people. The one encourages the appointment of a Canadian; the other discourages it. But if Canada is to achieve its fullest assertion of its maturity, the Canadian appointment is necessary, and in the long view, it is an undertaking which should be proceeded with, whatever the dangers.

LET'S BE HONEST

A lottery has been proposed as one way to bolster York County Hospital's serious financial position. There is much to favor the proposal. Certainly, a lottery would meet with general popularity, if the number of sweepstake tickets sold for the Irish hospitals is any indication.

But we wonder at the long-range value of such a method of fund raising. Isn't it about time we stopped kidding ourselves? Must every pill be sugar-coated? The hospital badly needs funds. That in itself should be sufficient to warrant popular public support.

The state is the servant, not the master, of the people; the state is their guarantee against infringement on their rights, their agent in international and national issues; it is not the function of the state to assume the direction of those activities which rest on individual choice.

There is a growing belief that the only way to earn public support for even the worthiest of causes is by a slick selling campaign, lavish use of publicity gimmicks, and plenty of pretty girls. Any campaign for funds needs an honest presentation of the facts, and a little persuasion, but have we deteriorated to such an extent that we cannot give to charitable causes without a high-powered display?

We are convinced that in the end, such campaigns defeat themselves. There is a limit to even a press agent's imagination. But there is no limit to the hard work of a door-to-door canvasser, backed by a clear-cut presentation of the facts. The public, contrary to the general belief, has a mind of its own.

If people want to take a chance with their dollars on a sweepstakes or lottery, let them go ahead with it, but never let us fool ourselves that a contribution to the hospital and the purchase of a lottery ticket are the same charitable act.

If the hospital plans a public campaign for funds, let those in charge prepare an honest campaign, based on straight-forward fact. If the people of this district are convinced that it is a worthwhile undertaking, they will support the hospital. If there is a public demand for lotteries or sweepstakes, let them be organized. But let's not confuse the two.

WELFARE SPENDING

Despite the millions spent on providing welfare services of one sort or another, it was apparently impossible for the King township relief officer to locate a place for an aged, bed-fast patient within the county. Mr. Arthur Moody told the council that the hospital and nursing homes were too crowded for one more bed-fast patient and there were no individuals prepared to take him.

It is a contradictory state of affairs that this should be so despite a welfare program inferior to none. And there is no indication that the case cited above is an exception. There are many in similar circumstances in the county.

Mr. Moody's problem points up a basic fact that no matter how much is spent on welfare services of one sort or another, hospitals, rest homes etc., it is practically impossible to provide for every sort of situation. Indeed there are so many gaps in the program for complete state welfare services, that one wonders if the time has not come to review what has been undertaken and what has been planned in the light of a few basic truths.

One of those truths is that the need for welfare services has been greatly aggravated by the break-up of the family unit. There was a time when the care of the old shared equally with the care of the young, when the average home was shared by not just two generations, parents and children, but by three generations plus assorted aunts, uncles, and cousins.

Such a family unit is impossible in the homes today. It would be interesting to know whether such homes are dictated by the cost of building materials, or by the desire of newly-weds to limit their families to themselves and their children. Either way, we believe that some of Canada's welfare money might be better spent encouraging the large family unit than in looking after the cast-offs from the small family.

FOREIGN POLICY

We are by no means in complete agreement with recent criticisms of Canada's foreign policy by members of the opposition parties, but there is no doubt that Canada's foreign policy experts are not doing all that can be done to establish the cause of democracy in men's minds. There is more to the cold war than the mustering of arms and the purchase of allies by gifts. Canada's minister for foreign affairs, Lester B. Pearson, is generally accepted as a man of talent and ability and his awareness of the factors which govern international affairs has been invaluable to Canada.

We do not think, however, that Mr. Pearson can qualify as much more than a brilliant technician. He has not introduced into Canadian foreign policy the breadth of vision and grand concept which is necessary if the democracies are to appeal to men's minds as well as their instinct for safety and the hunger in their bellies.

Canada must do more than simply rationalize; we have in this country an untapped wealth of inspiration which, if properly utilized, could be held before all men as the ultimate ideal of democracy. Our international reputation gives us license to speak. So far, we have offered little else than the material benefits. We can offer more but first we must arise above our own smallness.

As defence dollars were being poured into new government contracts to augment and equip Canada's armed forces for freedom, during the year, life went on at a steady hum at Peter-Wah military camp, all kinds of life.

Meanwhile people were busy at Otto-Wah. Purchasing officials were contemplating tender specifications and finding as many things they could buy as possible. One set of officials was contemplating a new type of excavation machine, made in Italy, for airports.

Typical of thousands of daily goings on in the capital, this was merely a small item. The purchasers wrote out modified tender specifications for gold plated bearings and specially created platinum lever handles. This was an important machine, to last 100 years at building an airport.

The fact that they overlooked a cheaper Canadian-made machine and the fact that Italian parts for maintenance might be hard to get or out of supply in a year were just a couple of minor eccentricities of government purchasing agencies that go along with routine government business, of course.

Meanwhile, out at Peter-Wah airport, a contractor re-classified a knoll that he had leveled off a few months ago. On his report he classified the knoll into granite and charged a couple more bucks per yard moved and cashed in on an extra $10,000. And what government official would bother to go out and inspect the material moved? Well, Upsan Downs is a long way from the government engineer's office and it would take too much time.

Meanwhile, out at Peter-Wah military camp, Captain Bill Tinbrade chewed on his soggy cigar and shoved his hat back on his head as he barked a crisp order to an army crane operator.

Twenty-five kitchen stoves, six tons of structural steel, a jeep, some camp shower units and an oak office desk for a headquarters office were loaded onto freight cars.

"Oh, Frank, you might as well drive the crane on board too," shouted the captain. And so the train load of supplies moved off to a good buyer down the line and Captain Bill Tinbrade tabulated up the profit he would put away for his own personal retirement fund. "Selling camp supplies is a darn good business," Captain Tinbrade thought to himself.

Your favorite correspondent just flew back from Otto-Wah this week after doing a reporting round-up on the big investigation up at Peter-Wah military camp. A ring of officers has been suspected of conducting colossal thefts on a two-year plan basis and on a freight train scale.

Taxpayers are up in arms. Bold, dramatic and sensational though these crimes by high-riding adventurous, colorful military robbers may be, they have certainly roused the taxpayers' wrath far more than the "legitimate" ones in Otto-Wah or on the construction jobs throughout Canada.

Granted, these army fellows have had far more publicity and their schemes have been much more in the open than the civil service sort. We believe that they are no more guilty than some civil contractors and government agents.

Your on-the-spot reporter couldn't help but admire the thought and planning that went into this army work. We feel that if as much initiative and planning were used in some authorized military affairs, this country might be further ahead in many ways.

We feel that the plot in this affair rates 10 percent above the imagination of the best Hollywood writer.

by "Dairy Farmer" The Top Six Inches

The government's new floor price for beef of 25 cents a pound for "top grade" beef at stock yards has been in force now for quite a few days. It is one of those supreme achievements in political thinking. It is the universal solution for everybody's trouble and at the same time it has no meaning that anybody could benefit from. It is something for everybody and nothing for anybody.

First, the government's announcement says the floor is 25 cents for top grade beef. This is a pretty fair sort of a floor, being only about six or seven cents below the price paid by U.S. buyers at the time of the embargo. Considering the further increase in the value of the Canadian dollar since then, it may be a half cent more. It is still below the present price, so that the consumer can hope that the present price, which is undoubtedly increasing consumption, will not go up.

It is to be paid at the stock yards, which would imply that there will be free bidding on the existent supply on a free market. It is to be valid for two months only, suggesting that since there have been so far no new outbreaks, and the spring break up is now underway, the U.S. market should be open to us again soon.

Neither is this price high enough to encourage sudden marketing and thus flood cooler capacity. And finally it is a reasonable return for those who have been running an ordinary, farm family size beef business and takes granted the fact that the big beef man made enough money the last few years that one year's moderate loss won't put him out of business.

So far so good. The only catch is that the government didn't bother explaining what top grade beef was.

Live beef is graded by the buyer's argument, the commission man's argument and a general looking and poking with canes. In other words, it is based on such things, all depending on the expert eye, as fleshing, finish, top patchy, not well enough covered and so on, but nothing that can be defined.

In other words, there may and may not be such a thing as top grade beef. And there is no assurance that of 5,000 head of cattle run in a week, one single animal will grade "top". It may be top on the butcher's counter, in the packer's cooler or on the restaurant table, but not at the yards.

This will mean one thing and one thing only: that is for all purposes except politically, the real floor price is below 25 cents. Also that the top grade beef should be one that comes from the Federation and is directed to the minister.

We think all parties concerned with the present situation, either as producers or as officials, realize that there had to be a floor price, but we also think that there should have been some arrangements which would have made the floor solid and not something so intangible. It was also obvious that a floor had to be lower than prices at the time of the embargo. But it should have been more realistic and less political.

As the days go by and there is more and more hope that the disease is not spreading, there is more and more hope that conditions could be normal before the end of the year. Maybe some of our worst fears need not come true and maybe the dislocation and the losses suffered by the industry and by livestock men in general will not be as disastrous as they could have been. "Maybe," we said.

But it would be well to remember that it all could have amounted to, and our organizations should demand a more active and energetic attitude on the part of those responsible for the health of our livestock.

The Editor: Your column, "The Top Six Inches", sometimes gladdens and sometimes saddens me—and occasionally he makes me mad—but "Dairy Farmer" always makes me think.

Now, I'm not going to say in what class his current reference to the possibility of the 8-hour day on a dairy farm goes, but it forcibly reminded me of a couple of related points in reading of recent days:

(1) "Canadian agriculture produces abundantly, and has for years, so much so that no person even thinks of food shortage being a problem in this country. A plentiful supply is taken for granted. This agricultural abundance is being produced on a long-hour day and a long-work week. Consequently, agriculture is exchanging in the market-place products of its 60 or 70-hour week for many goods and services produced on a 40-hour week.

"Under these circumstances, prices of most farm products today should be regarded as moderate. If a 40-hour week were practical on the farm and farmers demanded it, as others have done, the price of staple food products would have to be perhaps 20 to 33 percent higher than at present with all other factors remaining as they are." (H. H. Hannam, president, C. F.A.); (2) "Sir, I was a farmer up till 1951. I used to get up at 5 a.m., seven days a week. I had 20 dairy cows. I produced milk. I had to go out of doors to get my water—chilly in the winter time. I had to go out of doors to my bathroom—cold in the winter time. I did not make any money. I did not pay any income tax. I existed. But today: Now I work in the city and live in it. I pay $200 in income tax and I am very glad to do it. I start work at 9 a.m. and finish work at 5 p.m.

"I sleep in an Saturday and Sunday mornings. I turn a tap and have hot or cold water indoors. I open a door and have a heated bathroom, with hot and cold water. It is grand to live in the city and pay income tax." Signed Old-Time Farmer. "P. S., I now get paid for my work." (Letter in Montreal Star.) "Feeder."

News Of The W.I.

News for this column must be in the office Monday night. Copy must be written as briefly as possible and confined to news and reports. Other than routine reports and announcements will be printed separately.

The Gormley branch will meet at the home of Mrs. Jan Reid on Wednesday, April 23. There will be the annual election of officers so please let's have a good attendance. Motto: "What kind of Institute would our Institute be if every member was like me?" by Mrs. G. Boynton. Roll call will be to pay fees. Conveners are asked to please have their reports ready for this meeting. Hostesses are Mrs. John Ash and Mrs. E. A. Smith.

Good news came to King City branch when it was learned that Miss Anna P. Lewis, provincial director of Institutes, will be present at the district annual meeting of Centre York on May 15, at King United church. Mrs. R. C. Baycroft, Gormley, district president, made the announcement at the branch meeting at the home of Mrs. Stanley Hunter, April 8. It was agreed to order 20 Institute crest pins, to be sold to members in time for wearing at the D. A. Accompanying these will be the royal purple ribbon, worn with the pin until May 31, the time of expiration of the official mourning period for the late King George VI.

Mrs. Baycroft reported that eight district branches had contributed $95 toward a tractor fund for Greece.

A resolution for presentation at the annual district meeting pointed out that while the appointment of a Canadian to the post of Governor General of Canada has honored a native son and honored Canada's citizens, it has broken a vital link with the motherland. Apprehension was voiced that this change bring about the entry of this high office into the political arena as an issue of politics. After some discussion the resolution carried.

Standing committee reports were heard with interest and favorable comment by Mrs. Baycroft. These were given by Mrs. Aubrey Campbell, Miss Lily Anderson, Mrs. H. Folliott, Mrs. J. P. Norris, Mrs. L. E. Rollins. Unavoidable absence of Mrs. B. G. Jackson postponed her report on citizenship and education.

A timely subject was presented by president, Mrs. A. E. Jarvis, who outlined a description of the type of book which could be used as the branch Tweedsmuir book. The table of contents, style of writing, special kinds of covers, etc., were mentioned. Emphasizing the importance of collecting and making notations of authentic historical data pertinent to the district, a tentative committee was named to receive material and making a beginning on the project. They are: Mrs. L. E. Rollins, convener, Miss Marjorie Jarvis, Mrs. Jarvis, president, and the historical research convener with others to be added.

Mrs. Ivan Specht, reporting for York County Hospital Aid, asked that the convener of community activities and public relations meet with the Aid on May 5, to acquaint that organization how money is raised by King W.I. Mrs. Specht reported on the latest step of King Community Association toward a community hall. (See King News.)

Mrs. Austin Rumble gave a pep talk regarding preparations for the district annual luncheon, May 15. She expects every member will be on hand the previous night to arrange tables, etc. Miss Lily Anderson will assist Mrs. Rumble. Members will be given free lunch that day. Mrs. P. Norris and Mrs. T. L. Williams will report this meeting to the branch.

In her address on "Home", Mrs. Baycroft said the home is "made up of simple things that last". We should learn to live within our means, accept our lot and be contented.

Officers were re-elected with the exception of Miss Doris Patton, who has been secretary-treasurer for six years, the time limit for that office. A vote of thanks to her was moved by Mrs. Laura Rolling. Mrs. Doris Willoughby will assume this office, assisted by Mrs. Geo. Billings. Other officers are: hon. pres., Mrs. J. As. Patton; past pres., Mrs. E. J. Kyle; pres., Mrs. A. E. Jarvis; 1st vice-pres., Mrs. A. Rumble; 2nd vice-pres., Mrs. Gordon Walls; district director, Mrs. C. H. Stewart; directors, Lily Anderson, Mrs. J. L. Grew, Mrs. Roy Hollinshead, Mrs. Stan Hunter; auditors, Mrs. D. Rawlings and Miss Patton. Conveners are being appointed by the executive this week.

Belhaven branch met in the hall on Tuesday, April 8, with 10 members, three visitors and two children present. The motto was answered by Mrs. Ormsby Smith.

After a brief business session, election of officers was held: hon. pres., Mrs. Ross Stiles; president, Mrs. W. Anderson; vice-pres., Mrs. M. Sedore; sec.-treas., Mrs. D. Morton; dist. director, Mrs. E. Winch; pianist, Mrs. O. Smith.

Press secretary, Mrs. L. Kay; Sunshine com., Mrs. Herb. Crittenden, Mrs. R. Mainprize, Mrs. F. Stephens, Mrs. B. Davidson and Mrs. R. Stiles; auditors, Mrs. W. Kydd and Mrs. O. Smith.

At the close of the election, with Mrs. D. Anderson in the chair, the following program was given: Mrs. Lloyd Kay gave current events. Mrs. Noble Munro, our guest speaker, read a very interesting letter from Mrs. Corps, whose husband teaches in a train school in Northern Ontario. From it we learned much about the customs of this section of our province.

Mrs. O. Smith sang a beautiful solo, accompanied by Mrs. B. Johnston at the piano. After the singing of the National Anthem, a dainty lunch was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Mundy and Mrs. Horner.

Aurora branch regular meeting will be held on Thursday, April 24, at 2:30 p.m., at the home of Mrs. J. Brooks, Wellington St. E.

Roll call: "Renew your membership." This meeting is the annual election of officers. Members please note change of place of meeting.

Lakeside branch meeting is taking place April 29 at 8 p.m. in Keswick Memorial Hall. Will the ladies kindly take notice of the change of date for this month only, the meeting being held one week later than previous date.

A few changes are noted in the slate of officers of Lasky branch for the coming year. Returned to office are: pres., Mrs. Norman Egan; hon. pres., Miss Winnifred Boys; vice-pres., Mrs. Effie Bath; sec.-treas., Miss Helen Hunter, for the fifth term. Mrs. Marvin Hunter is the new assistant secretary; district director, Mrs. Bob Riddell; directors, Mrs. Clyde Cairns and Mrs. George Forester; Sunshine fund, Mrs. Lawrie Boys who has charge of boxes for the sick and the bank book for new babies; pianist, Miss Marjorie McMurphy; auditors, Miss McMurphy and Mrs. M. Hunter.

Standing committee conveners are: agriculture and Canadian industries, Mrs. Pearson Smeltzer and Mrs. Chas. Black; citizen and education, Mrs. Earle Scott and Mrs. Archie McDonald; historical research and current events, Mrs. Lorne Scott and Mrs. N. Etheridge; home economics and health, Miss W. Boys and Mrs. Marshall McMurphy; community activities and public relations, Mrs. Fred O'Brien and Mrs. L. Boys; lunch com., Mrs. Chas. Hatley, Mrs. Les. Glass, Mrs. F. Buddin and Mrs. Wm. Ham.

Giving annual reports were: home economics and health, Mrs. Marshall McMurphy; historical research, Mrs. N. Etheridge; community activities and public relations, Mrs. O'Brien.

The fund organized for the renovation of Lasky Institute hall stands at $800. Three years ago the Institute set up the fund with $300 from the treasury. Since that time $500 has been raised. Recently the lighting system was altered and repairs were made to the roof. The

W.I. NEWS

The Kettleby branch met at the home of Mrs. Gene Polkinghorn with a good attendance. Mrs. F. Schmidt, president, in the chair. Mrs. Carman Wilson gave flower box report: six get well cards and four sympathy cards were sent out this month.

It was voted to send Easter cards to all the shut-ins. Mrs. Norman Greensides, convenor of community activities and public relations, gave a paper on "Take your Happiness - Now!"

Why is it in life we have a tendency to be always anticipating much better things in the future? Perhaps this is the right and natural thing but it is also wrong. Maybe next week we won't be so busy and we will be more company to our children; next year when we get our new something-or-other things will be different.

We must teach ourselves that now is the time to enjoy what is ours. Those of us who still have our children in public school and they still go along most everywhere we go, should be happy with their company and not spoil it by complaining that we must take them along. Speaking of teen-agers reminds me of a poem.

Part of you listens, as you lie
For Junior's cough, for baby's cry;
But oh so swift the years slip by
And you lie listening once more, Listening impatiently for —
That blessed sound — a key in the door.

Lord Baden, who founded the Boy Scout movement, says in one of his books: "The message for the world is that people put too much belief in the theory that wealth brings happiness. Perhaps I, being well to do, may be entitled to say, it is not so." The things that are most worth having are the things that money cannot buy. Perhaps we are like the man who lost his sense of color and beauty because he was too busy making money and finally became so aware of his misfortune that he ordered put on his tombstone "Born a human being, died a wholesale grocer."

Kindling's plea was "Teach us to delight in simple things." Enjoy what you have, be content with your lot and never hanker to others. Think nothing too much trouble if it gives happiness to others. We mothers cannot all ways go around with happy faces.

There are so many little things that bother us, but I wonder if we realize the large part we play in either making our home a happy one or unhappy one, Mrs. Greensides concluded.

Mrs. Carl Black gave current events, but instead of giving the happenings of the day, gave a paper prepared by Dr. Archie Wallace of Maple. The title "Tell them so." If you love people, tell them so. The woman who doesn't appreciate a compliment hasn't been born. It doesn't take much to make people happy, but often a few gracious words just don't come. A little praise is like oil in machinery, it keeps things running smoothly.

Mrs. Black then gave a few suggestions of her own. So many of us come home from meetings and think how nicely someone has done something or how hard they have worked, but do we tell them so? Finding fault seems to be so much easier than giving a compliment. I wonder this next year if we couldn't all try to praise someone, when you think it is earned. "A kind word can change a whole day."

The meeting closed with the National Anthem. Refreshments were served by the hostesses Mrs. H. Webster, Mrs. G. Polkinghorn and Mrs. L. deVries. A vote of thanks was moved by Mrs. R. Jewitt.

Arena Jets and Legion, Aurora's top level mid get hockey operators, took the stage to wind up the Good Friday Night minor hockey show in the Aurora Arena. The two teams put on a rousing scrap to climax the busy evening of eight games. Arena Jets came out of the hockey warfare Midget Rose (coach), Robert McGann, Jim Preston. Back row, l. to r., Murray Chapman, Stephen Mills, Ken Rose (coach), a 2-1 win over the Legion. Front row, l. to r., Bob Murby, Walter Southwood, Robert Higgins, Jack Brooks, Cliff Murrell. WALLPAPER DISPLAY

A wallpaper hanging demonstration and wallpaper style show will be held in the Newmarket Town Hall on Monday, May 12, at 8:15 p.m., through the courtesy of H. L. Stephens and Son, Main St. The Newmarket Women's Institute is sponsoring this instructive program. Tickets will be obtainable from Institute members.

Miss Kay Appleby will demonstrate how to hang wallpaper. "Hanging your own wallpaper is easy," says Miss Appleby who will show how to apply wallpaper to walls and ceiling; paper around doors, windows and light switches. The easy method of wallpaper application will be demonstrated showing the many short cuts professionals use.

With Miss Appleby will be the decorating counselor, Miss Frances James whose weekly newspaper column, "Decoratively Speaking," is known throughout the province. Miss James is equally well known as a lecturer to women's groups and will speak on decorating with wallpaper. She will illustrate her talk with wallpaper, draperies and rug samples and will show a series of slides of room interiors.

Larry Sutton assisted. Teams traded first period goals, Jack Murby doing honors for the Hawks and Larry Sutton for the Redwings.

Leafs gained a shot at the finals two unassisted goals that gave against the Wings via Don Glass's them a 2-0 win over Canadians.

In the bantam group, Rotary captured the championship and Tom Dickson Trophy on the strength of Delbert Storie's last period goal that gave them a 1-0 win over the Lions. "Squeak" Egan got an assist.

The Common Round...

By Isabel Ingle Colville

ORATORIO AND CONCERT DEBUT

Should Norman Hurrell leave Newmarket — and long-distant be that day! — he will have left with his choir and with many music lovers in Newmarket, something that will linger in memory while life lasts — and who knows but beyond.

In studying and—yes—in listening to Handel's "Messiah", one climbs one of the great mountains of sacred music, and attaining its peak, looks back over the magnificence of one's attainment, for spread around one are gems from the hand of a master musician.

On the evening of Good Friday, the senior choir of Trinity United church presented the Easter portion of the "Messiah", to a large and appreciative audience. Mr. Hurrell asked that the congregation join in the singing of hymn 94, the Passion Chorus—Hassler-Bach—after which the choir rendered "Behold the Lamb of God", followed by the aria "He Was Despised", so fitting for Good Friday, and sung with tenderness and understanding by Maire Jackson.

And so, through arias, recita-tives and choruses, soloists and choir were swept along in the grand onward surge of the music to the fitting finale in "Worthy is the Lamb".

Vera Brown, in "How Beautiful are the Feet", excelled herself, and who can listen to "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth" unmoved, and Elizabeth Beer sang it with fine interpretation, bringing out the rock-firm faith on which it is built.

In the aria "If God Be For Us", Alice Rourke gave her listeners a magnificent and dramatic rendition of a truth that can stand emphasis in this day and generation.

Donald Gardham, tenor, in the very exacting and demanding recitatives and arias which confront a tenor, did some very fine work. I thought his interpretation of "Thou Shalt Break Them" outstanding, where all were good.

Kenneth Morton, baritone, did excellent work in the equally difficult bass solos, and I thought that in "The Trumpet Shall Sound", especially, he did work
of which he might well be proud.

The Accompaniment
The soloists inspired the choir to live up to them, while underneath, outstanding, supporting, inspiring, was the magnificent organ accompaniment. I often wonder if we fully appreciate what such an accompaniment means to soloist or choir. If we had to do with one less inspired, we would know.

And so, another milestone in choir history is past.
Kenneth Mills, Pianist
When we received an invitation to be present at the Toronto debut of Kenneth Mills, we were delighted. We had met him as Denise Tunney's teacher, and from what we saw, we knew he had a genius for teaching.

So, on Saturday evening, Apr.
5, we started out blithely to pick up Hilda, Frances and Denise to take the bus for Toronto. The rain poured down, but it would have taken more than that to dampen our enthusiasm.

We got the "more" when, with a bang, one of our tires departed this life. We telephoned for a taxi and took up the interrupted journey, while a good Samaritan in the shape of Norman Legge promised that our car would get us home.

There were two other things that we who listened to Kenneth Mills will not forget—his marvellous left-hand work and his pedal control.
Kenneth Mills has what I would call interpretive genius—he will give us new light on many both well-known and little-known piano works—the light that can only come from a deep-down knowledge and superior love of one's art.

A pleasant little incident ended our evening. When we went to congratulate the artist of the evening, he had his picture taken with Denise—another preview—the artist at the beginning of a brilliant career and the tiny artist of tomorrow. What mattered the snow and slush of the homeward way—we had had an unforgettable evening.

He did his duty to God and the Queen. Religious sects are not recognized in scouting for it is completely interdenominational.
Each boy is expected to follow the tenets of the religion in which he was raised and to respect the religious beliefs of others who differ with him. If duty to God is properly performed, then duty to the Queen will naturally follow.

The scout continues in his promise to help other people. If properly organized, scouts could be of great service to Newmarket. They could do aged people's shopping, run errands, operate library service for shuttles and many other tasks. Mothers could help by making suggestions to the boys of ways in which they can uphold their promise and be of service to the community.

If the scout is encouraged to take his law seriously, it follows that the boy will be honorable, loyal, useful and helpful, friendly and courteous, considerate of animals, obedient,
cheerful under adversity, thrifty and clean in thought, word and deed.

Mr. Lothian closed his talk with a word of appreciation for the older scouts without whose help it would have been impossible to continue. With little adult assistance they kept the troop intact. Mr. Lothian made a plea for more adult interest.
"Only adequate adult assistance and leadership will insure efficient operation of a scout troop."

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

Sporting gestures, in which this column is primarily interested, dot the sport scene. That's traditional. There'll be many of them this year, as in every other year. Amateur and professional sport will both contribute their quota.

But, at year-end, we doubt if you'll find one to excel, in its spontaneous spirit, that developed in Montreal, before a fanatic hockey crowd, one night last January.

You'll require a bit of background, perhaps, to more fully appreciate this. Maurice (The Rocket) Richard, is the idol of Montreal sportdom. What Babe Ruth and Christy Mathewson were to baseball; what Lionel Conacher, Red Grange and Jim Thorpe were to football, the Rocket is to Montreal's vast hockey public, plus. That January night, Canadians were playing one of their bitterest rivals, the powerful Detroit Red Wings, and as an additional attraction, if one was needed, Richard the Rocket was to receive the award in recognition of being the Hockey Player of 1951, so selected by and for an American magazine devoted to sports.

So it was, in reality, a Richard night, a Richard crowd, come to pay homage to an idol. But, unbelievably, because of one spontaneous sporting gesture, the whole show was stolen by Richard's arch-enemy of the National League right-wing ice lanes, quiet, hard-shooting young Gordie Howe of the Wings, who just then was battling Richard tooth and nail for the N.H.L. scoring lead.

It wasn't that Richard, unable to play because of an injury, and clad in civvies, didn't get a great ovation when he stepped out on the rubber runway, while players of Red Wings and Canadiens stretched in a line across the ice pounded on the ice with their sticks to make their own contribution to the occasion. It wasn't that Mayor Houdie, a master-craftsman of words in such events, didn't speak with eloquence. All that went smoothly as per routine schedule.

When the presentation was finished, and Richard had marched back to the promenade and was just about to disappear into the crowd, Howe suddenly skated away from his position, wheeled over, and called out "Hey, Rocket!" When Richard turned, Howe doffed his glove, extended his hand, and the two rivals for top goal-getting honors in the National Hockey League shook hands warmly.

It was a sort of genuinely unrehearsed spontaneous gesture that caught the big crowd completely by surprise. Montreal crowds are appreciative of dramatic moments and color in sport, and they felt, rightly, that here was one of them. For a few seconds there was stunned silence. Then this crowd who had come to cheer the Rocket blasted out a thunderous roar that even exceeded the warmth with which Richard had been received, because this cheer was for an event unexpected. It was a cheer unrehearsed, and thoroughly, warmly genuine.

Before young Howe skated quietly back to his right wing position, a press photographer asked him to shake hands again with Richard, but Howe, no actor, had already contributed a sincere gesture, and was in no mood to add any studied theatrical touch and shook his head smilingly.

And after that, he went on to score the goal that put him even with the ailing Richard. And the pro-Canadian crowd cheered him again, even for that.

Checking Over The Sports World

These North York boys know how to get around and go places. On Good Friday Douglas Smith of Toronto, former Aurora boy, was re-elected headman of Ontario softball at London, while in Toronto, Colborne Ames, better known to Newmarket fans as "Doc", was elected vice-president of the Ontario C.C.F. executive. Smitty, whose brothers, Frank and Julius, still live in Aurora, played lacrosse and hockey in Aurora before departing for the Queen City, and played with Aura Lee Jrs. in 1917 when they won the O.H.A. championship. He's held about every organized sports office in Toronto.

Ames, a druggist by vocation, alternated in goal for the Redmen with Reginald "Butt" Corbett in 1926-27, as Owen Sound took Newmarket in the junior finals. The next year he was in the cage against Marlboros as they took the finals 4-3 on the round. Two years later, he was in goal for Toronto Varsity as they won the O.H.A. senior crown.

A trio of Newmarket boys played for U. of T. that year, Doug, Marshall and Fred Murray being the others. It was, of course, not uncommon for most of the University teams, except in rugby, to be composed of boys from small town Ontario.

Speaking of yesterday, Harry Rachlin, prominent Buffalo attorney, was in Aurora last week visiting friends, and Dr. Curly Underhill of Erie, Penn., was also in Aurora attending his niece's wedding. Mr. Rachlin played a bit of baseball in Aurora and resided where the present automotive firm is located. His family is best remembered as owners and operators of the arena when it caved in in the late 20's.

Dr. Underhill was an all-round athlete at Aurora high and excelled in soccer. He was a member of the Toronto Varsity soccer club, as were his brother, the late Dr. E. V. "Gene" Underhill, Norm. Johnson, Ev. Learoyd, Dr. Herb. Spaulding and Lorn Campbell of King, a record that few schools have ever equalled.

Soccer was a pretty important sport at Varsity in the early 20's, and they had some great teams. Both gents got a kick out of meeting old pals and gals. Still another ex-North Yorker, Rusty White of Fergus, reached the headlines as his Fergus Juniors annexed the Junior "D" championship. Rusty, a Richmond Hill boy, was terrific at soccer and basketball at high school. On defence in hockey for Aurora and Fergus, he was a rugged, spectacular performer. At lacrosse for Richmond Hill and Fergus he was one of the best ever to play. In fact, as an all-round athlete, he was one of the greatest ever produced in this district. Two years ago he took a Fergus mid-level club to a championship and this season, his junior club has given Fergus its first O.H.A. title. Whitey is a member of the Fergus council and has a nice job with Beatty Brothers in his adopted home town.

Sunderland, as we predicted, was no match for Fergus, and if only population is to count in rating teams, it's time the O. H. A. tossed the rule out the window. Sunderland was a true "D" team. Fergus is good enough to give Collingwood Greenshirts quite a go. Aurora Bears would have had their hands full winning the group play-offs with Fergus, Hespeler and Elmira.

No need to mention that Collingwood Greenshirts took Ingersoll Reems in four straight for their third straight junior championship. That makes Aurora Bears the second best "C" team if comparisons mean anything. Following the junior win, Collingwood turned the town inside out and immediately Jim Barrett, Al Morrill and import Val Walker moved up upstairs to aid the faltering Shipbuilders in their series against Cananquo. This trio have been the spark that Eddie Bush needed and Barrett has been sensational, notching at least two goals in every game. Wonder what happened to Frankie Dance, the third member of the power line? Understand Bush clashed with him, and felt he hadn't extended himself in junior.

In case you wonder why it is Collingwood can attract topflight juniors and hold their own and the imports against bids from junior "A" clubs, the average salary, (job plus club supplement) is said to be over $60 per week, and the boys are on jobs where they can improve their income and have steady employment. Nuff Sed!

All softballers can wear gloves this year in all series. Formerly it was only the catcher and first sacker. The game is practically Americanized now and we can probably expect 10 men teams next year. A smaller ball for pee-wee and bantam ball was put in force, a move in the right direction. We believe you will see pee-wee and bantam softball on an inter-town basis this summer under Canadian Legion sponsorship. The project is likely to be announced soon.

Possibilities would have the kids from Sutton, Mount Albert, Bradford, Newmarket, Aurora, Stouffville, Woodbridge, Richmond Hill, King and Willowdale in a two-group compact set-up.

Normie Stunden, who is playing super-hockey in the nets for Stouffville Clippers this month, will be married in June and will reside in Aurora, which means Normie would be available for North Yonge softball, in any event, town league mushball. Next winter, perhaps, the Spits might use the good neighbor policy.

Clippers are favored to take Lynhurst Motors in their present series, the winners to meet either Burlington or Port Colborne. The Motormen have Russ. Robertson, Norm. Gray and Earl "Chink" Clements who played for Markham Millionaires last winter with Messrs. Stunden, Jackie Watson and Ron. Bell of the present Clippers, so there's no love lost between the club. Ed. Couch, a former Clipper player, is also with the Toronto team.

Kitchener Juniors held a hockey school last week and among those attending were Messrs. Bowan, Klinek and Cressman from Elmira Jrs. of the local group, Noel Ash and Jackie Woods and the top two of Nobleton juniors, and Howell, Bowman and Harvey Wallace of Bolton, Hahn of Hespeler Jrs. Some of them will be back in the fall for further looksee. The Greenshirts are sponsored by Les Canadians.

Aurora arena will not close until May 1. The T.H.L. is booked heavily, and we hope the local youngsters will get a bigger break. We understand that a hockey school was proposed by Andy Closs, Charlie Rowntree, but was not favored by those in charge. It would have provided a fine preview for next season's team and given the management a chance to see some recommended prospects. Outside help would have been forthcoming.

Did you see that shot of Loring Doolittle in action at Bill McCowan's umpire school featured with Andy O'Brien's story in a Toronto daily at the weekend? Quite the photogenic lad! Leaves for the Blue Ridge league soon. The local ump's will certainly miss him as well as those at Viaduct Park.

Nobleton Wins Opener

Nobleton's Golden Boys and Kleinburg Greenshirts fired the opening gun in the King-Vaughan Hockey League best of five finals Friday. Nobleton, season long leaders, got away on the right foot shading Kleinburg 8 - 7 in a suspenseful scrap.

Nobleton looked jobbed as Kleinburg took what appeared to be a commanding 4 - 1 lead in the first period. Greenshirts extended their edge to 5 - 1 by the midway mark of the second.

Then Nobleton came back with that championship glitter in their eyes. The Golden Boys drove in two second period goals to slice the Kleinburg margin and spurred for five goals in a furious last period rush that stole the decision right out from under the Kleinburg sneezer.

Stan Foster and Glen Atkinson counted two each for Nobleton. Consistent plugging by Jack Woods, Len Murray, Tom Dwyer and Bruce Wallace accounted for the other Nobleton scores.

Goal hungry Bill Roe pegged three, Harry Lostchuk two, while Walt Bell and Ted Burbridge netted singles for the tamed Greenshirts.

Married Men's Hockey

A final check this week shows all players in the tilting in the North Gwillimbury Married Men's Hockey League suffering from torn ligaments, fallen arches, cut, bruised, busted, sprained or strained backs have been released from the York County Hospital wards and doctors' waiting rooms.

That bit of good news rings down the final curtain on a successful season, and naturally there'll be more next season, reports busy league secretary-treasurer Perry Winch Jr. Mr. Winch presents the following financial statement covering the past winter's operations.

Receipts: North Gwillimbury Athletic Association grant, $120; gate receipts, $247.61; sale of hockey sticks, $36.60; total $404.21; Disbursements: equipment purchased, goalie equipment, sticks, etc., $272.35; medical expenses, $37; miscellaneous, advertising, referees, etc., $33.41; total, $342.49. Balance on hand, $61.72.

Sutton Wins Title

That very last clambake at the local Memorial Gardens as Sutton slaughtered Blytheswood 11-4 had everybody, Sutton, Newmarket and district Green-shirt supporters, convinced Sutton could skate into the championship backwards.

When reports of game two came in — Sutton travelled to Aylmer for it—fans doffed their Easter chapeaus in amazed, shell-shocked silence. Small wonder—the worm had turned—Blytheswood had squashed the Greenshirts 11-3 to even the O. R. H. A. final series at a game each.

Skip Taylor counted first and third period goals while Ted Anderson and Fred Taylor worked in cahoots for the other Greenshirt marker.

But three cheers. All's well again on the Simcoe shores. Experts can sit back with the robins and sing "I told you so". The Greenshirts' Pringlemen have won the series and championship with an 8-6 triumph in game three at Aylmer Monday.

Shifty nifty centerman John Leary spearheaded the newly crowned monarchs of the rural senior scene with a hat-trick job. Skip Taylor dunked two, while Ted Anderson and Fred Taylor got into the scoring act with efficiently handled single scoring thrusts.

Sutton: Goal, W. Holder; defense, K. Dunn; B. Brady, A. Loneragan; forwards, J. Leary, G. Holborn, S. Taylor, F. Taylor, R. O'Dell, T. Anderson, R. Griffith, A. Lockie.

Heads Baseballers

Plans for Newmarket's return to the intermediate baseball fold are making satisfactory progress. At a second meeting to organize the club in the town hall Monday, Geo. Hudson, prominent sportsman and bowler, was elected president. Ernie Benoit, long time baseball booster, was named vice-president. Ted Robinson, former Newmarket pitcher, is manager. Herb Cain is being approached to take on the coaching duties.

Other executive posts are expected to be filled this week. Local baseballers want to enter the South Simcoe Baseball League but as yet no definite word of acceptance. Some 20 players were mentioned as possible candidates for the team. The executive will meet shortly to complete plans for the season.

On The Alleys

Three weeks to go in Monday Night Ladies' League. As a result of Monday's scoring, 450's whitewashed Wildcats 4-0, Jets over Coons 3-1, Blue Bonnets over Hot Rods 3-1. Coons are on top with 64, 450's 62, Wildcats 563, Jets 52, Hot Rods 47, Blue Bonnets 423.

Hester Clark rapped out 644 (192-281-171). Flo Reilly 631, Jeanne Gatti 613, Elsie Cline 601.

Myrtle Dunn rolled up a 608 threesome in the Thursday Night Ladies' League; Ella Wilkins 565, Vi Dales 537, Helen Tomlinson 512, Bev. Walker 509, Edna McGrath 503.

The little wooden pegs proved tough for the sharpshooters in the Office Specialty Officers' League last week. Loui Bovair had 233-199-184 for 615. Great battle on for the loop title—with two weeks to go. Francis MacFarland's with 44 points holds a point edge over Jim Cook's men at 43.

Play for the Bowtlaugh trophy, mixed teams, Goodman Bros. Cup, ladies' teams and Peter Gorman Trophy, men's teams, will open at the North End Alleys April 21. All leagues, Mount Albert, Bradford, Office Specialty Officers' League, Friday Night, Davis Leather and Can. Hoffman teams, are eligible.

HASHMAN AWARD

For Work With Minors

Hockey's six months reign has just about run its course, thank goodness, but your Hashman still finds there are a few gentlemen on the award list that can't be overlooked before the final curtain rings down. Your Hashman often asks himself what would happen to minor sport in the Hub if it wasn't for the Optimists.

Those hard working men dig up the dough, furnish transportation, supply coaches and organize our minor hockey and ball teams. Quite a job you'll agree for fellows who have to go to work the next day. They do it with a smile and come back for more.

This week's award thus should go to the Optimists Club - and that puts your Hashman in a quandry. Who, out of those busy bees, do we select for Hashman award and Roxy Theatre pass? After checking and double-checking our list, we won't run into trouble from any quarter if we name Don Warner our man. Don is chairman of the boys work committee and has done a tremendous job over the past year.

Diggers Win Aurora Crown

For a second year in a row, Mickey Sutton's Ditch Diggers are wearing the Aurora Town League crown. Tuesday the Diggers plastered Jimmy Murray's Queen's hotel 10-0 to take the title and final series three games to one.

Charlie Case picked up a comparatively easy shut-out behind a strong defensive display by Mickey Sutton, Ted Sutton, Earl MacDonald and Bill Mundell who took great pains to shoot Hot Rods away from Casey's twine pagoda.

Andy Lloyd came closest to cracking Casey's shut-out spell with a third period blast that hit the post but bounced out and away from the cage. Casey in the progress of coralling his shut-out took a six stitch cut over the eye, but after stitching, was back and going strong.

There wasn't a weak link from center to goal in the Diggers' team, and they punched in two in the first, three in the second and hit a jack-pot five in the finale.

Woodbridge Wins Title

Jim Murray and Mickey Sutton, masters of Aurora Tigers, herded a much improved squad into Woodbridge Tuesday. The occasion was the second game in the best of three series for the North York hockey title. But despite the last minute rebuilding program the Tigers found themselves 8-5 losers after 60 minutes of blistering, wide-open hockey.

That Woodbridge win gave them the series in two straight and the North York laurels. Both teams put more emphasis on defensive duties than in their previous clambake, and it was a 2-2 hockey game after 20 minutes.

Tigers got yeoman service from Ron Starkey in goal and steady blue-line blurring from Harry Sutton, Walt Fines and Mickey Sutton, in holding highly taunted Blueshirts under control. The Blueshirts stepped ahead 4-3 in the middle period. Then the Tigers sagged and Woodbridge scored four times to the Tigers' two. And that was the game and series.

Bill Mundell and Bill Patrick teamed up on one Aurora front combo to spearhead Aurora's drive with two goals each. Earl MacDonald's put-shooting got the Tiger's other tally; Dud Kearney, Sun. Rowntree, Ron Klinek, Stan. Foster and Ray Castator scored for Woodbridge.

Aurora: R. Starkey, W. Fines, H. Sutton, M. Sutton, E. MacDonald, B. Rose, E. Rose, W. Mundell, W. Patrick, D. Egan.

Woodbridge: J. Blake, B. Wallace, G. Rowntree, E. Cloutier, S. Foster, J. Laven, H. Klinek, D. Kearney, R. Castator.

Pattern For Action

By Geo. Haskett
Sports Editor

North York needs minor baseball - and minor baseball needs some North York boosters.

Round 'n about our beat of late, the most asked question among baseball coaches has been: "How are we going to get competition?" They say you can't produce winning baseball sides without competition. They're so very right. So what's the answer?

Little doubt that there are plenty of baseball boosters in Stouffville, Richmond Hill, Markham, Aurora, Newmarket, Bradford, Sutton and Mount Albert. There's the competition, tailor-made, so to speak. Why can't those active baseball men be called together and a North York Minor Baseball circuit organized? It can be done.

We can recall not so many years back when an active minor baseball league functioned in North York. Teams in were Aurora, Newmarket, Stouffville, Markham, Milliken and Richmond Hill. There's no reason this league couldn't get going again. What say, baseball boosters? Clame for a try?

If there's enough interest shown, meeting will be called in the near future to organize. Come on Stouffville, Markham, Aurora, Newmarket, Bradford, Sutton, Richmond Hill and Mount Albert. Let's hear from you.

BANQUET HOCKEYISTS

What promises to be one of the biggest events on the local spring sport calendar is booked for attention Friday night, April 18, when the Optimist Club will banquet all the players operating under their hockey banner during the past season. Danny Lewicki, Toronto Maple Leaf's star winger, will be guest speaker. All players on the Optimists' six N.H.L. teams are requested to be at the United Church (basement) at 7 p.m. In addition to eats and oratory, several movie shorts and a Leaf N.H.L. game will be shown. Also due for attention will be the presentation of league trophy to winning Leafs and individual awards for the most valuable player and leading scorer as well as crests for the champion and runner-up teams.

Ladies Lose Opener

Aurora ladies have an almost impossible task before them. Tuesday night, they lost at home against East York in the Ontario Ladies' Hockey Association finals 7-0.

If the Ken. Rose coached Aurora machine wishes to take down the Ontario championship, they have to defeat East York by eight goals next Tuesday in game two in the home and home, goals to count series.

If only Marg. Winn, East York rocket winger, had gone shopping for spring finery, things might have been different. As it was, she pounded four goals by Esther Topp in the Aurora cage. Lil Davidson with two and Joy Collett with a single were the Aurora's responsible for the Aurora defeat.

"We've put up better games—we'll do better Tuesday," says Coach Rose.

Aurora: goal, E. Topp; defense, L. Case, J. Benzer, I. Mashinter; forwards, Y. Condy, E. Marinoff, B. Patrick, J. Marinoff, J. Patchell, T. Purcell, V. Sutton.

Softball coaches are getting that worried look on their pans. They don't know where their next pitcher is coming from. Your paragrapher offers an exclusive Era and Express service to aid them.

Forseeing their spring difficulties, we have been keeping a little black book of those players who casually mentioned they were through - finished - retired. For the coaches' benefit and naturally without charge, we'll open this secret file this week. Better stand well back - it's an impressive list.

Here she goes: lost to the rocking chair, Ken "Red" Mitchell, Charlie Green, Kelly Case, Joe Case (there goes Mount), Johnny Myers, Gord. Rynard, Ron Kester (that should get Morley Bain on the phone pronto), Harry Brammer, Cec. McNeill, Don Cameron. Lost to baseball, Bob Pollock, Tom Hare, locally, Don Gibson, Orlie Thoms, Ken Thoms, Stan Winger, Alvie McKnight, Jerry Hugo, Wayne Robinson.

Lost to golf, Hack Cain. Just lost, umps Bob Peters, Cec. Carpenter. On the executive side, gone geese are Frank Courtney, Ross Chapman, Harold LaPlante, Jack Teasdale (they'll be missed). Gone fishing are Percy Richmond, Art King, Johnny Victor. Don't bother them, coaches. They're retired - but definitely. Better get along and sign what's left.

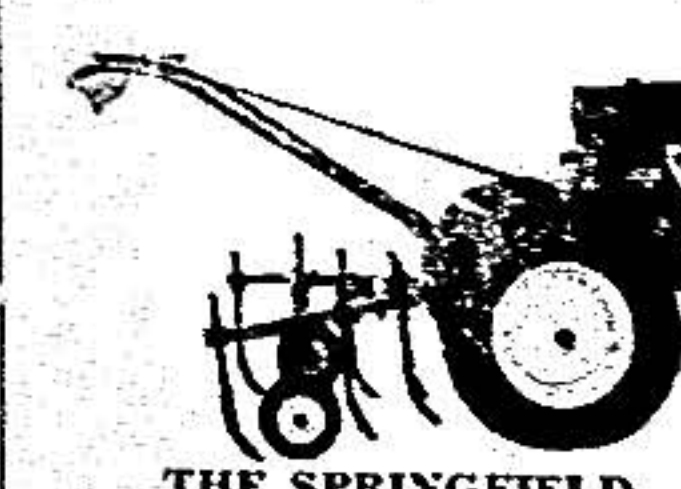

Consolation. Back and ready for action are Chess Lunney, Ross Draper, Bob Mitchell, Ab Boak, Mickey Smith, Charlie VanZant. Latter pair apparently are having belt trouble - can't pull it tight enough. Specialty manager Pete Neufeld and Bell's Charlie McDonald have issued ultimatums: get under 200 men or it's down to the farm teams. Possibly we've opened our secret retired list too soon - maybe this will change their minds.

'Tis reliably reported from provincial softball headquarters that gloves can be worn all around this year - catchers, pitchers, infielders, outfielders. This bit of info brought one snort from a local baseball addict, "They steal the game from the wimmin - now it's gloves - what next, bushel baskets?"

Can a player play softball and baseball and do justice to both games? Now that's a poser! Old timers in one voice say no. Johnnies come lately aren't so sure. Perhaps, if the Town Softball moguls drop the barriers to allow baseballers to display their wares in the softball wars, we'll get the answer here this summer.

North York softball: Some interest being talked up in Aurora, King, Schomberg and Newmarket on a proposal to form a north division of the North York Softball League. One key softball booster who likes to see some out-of-town competition, asks: "Why not an all-star team from the Town League to represent the Hub, likewise Aurora. Say a home game every other week - keep the schedule short - so as not to interfere with regular league schedules?"

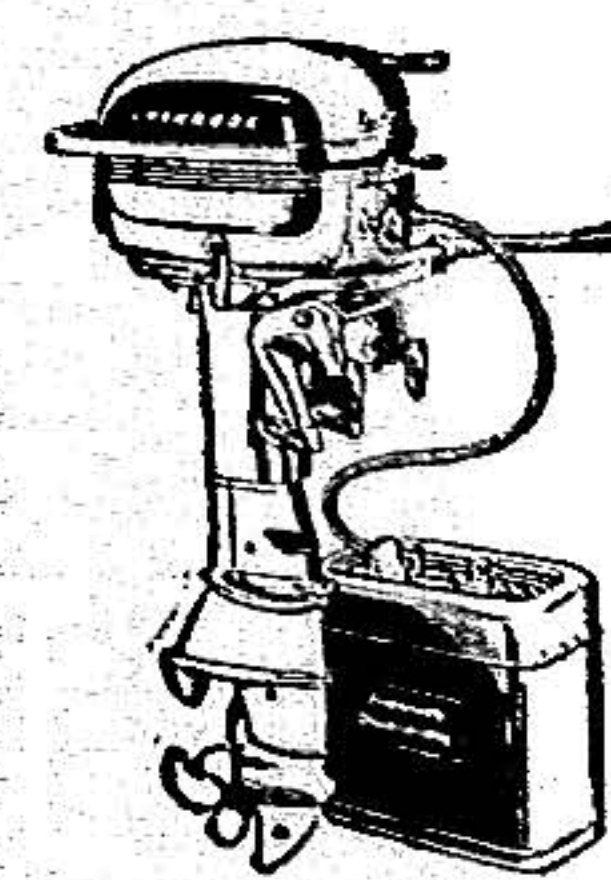

Town and country digest: Congrats to Aurora Recreation Commission on their fine and concise report under the signatures of Chairman Don Glass and sec. treas. Harvey Bell. The Commission is taking an excellent lead in promoting sport in our sister town. Newmarket Commission could be dead and buried for all we hear from them. Financial statements from Recreation and Arena Commissions should be a yearly feature. They not only let the taxpayers who

Dundalk Citizens Decline Liquor And Beer Outlets; New Aurora Organizations

The Dundalk, Ontario, folks don't want either a beer warehouse or a liquor store in their village. On April 9 they went to the polls and said so in very emphatic terms. Of the 560 eligible voters, 520 cast ballots; 21 ballots were spoiled; 92.8 percent of voters went to the polls. You may be sure that all the liquor and beer stockpile supporters were out in full force.

Forty-two years have passed since the Dundalk folks decided that they didn't want liquor and beer outlets in their community. The resolve they made away back in the year 1910 has grown stronger through the years, and we imagine it will be a long time before the L. and B. boys will make another raid on the Dundalk folks.

Probably more than 90 percent of the Dundalk voters who refused to have liquor and beer stores in their village themselves take a "spot" when they want it. That ratio may be too high, but it amounts to a certainty that the moderate drinkers were the voters who decided the issue of keeping the liquor and beer stores outside of Dundalk.

Maughan-Rogers Letter

The letter we published last week from Mr. Maughan and Mr. Rogers took up a great amount of valuable space, but in the volume of words there were two material points which call for a reply from us.

The letter challenged the accuracy of our headline which stated that 100 people without a vote signed the petition, and that Mr. A. J. Child did not speak at the Board of Trade meeting when we reported on good authority that he did.

The Maughan-Rogers letter does not deny that 100 names were erased from the petition through ineligibility, but claim that the names were removed before the papers reached the town hall.

Indulging A Quibble

On receipt of the Maughan-Rogers letter denying that Mr. Child spoke at the Board of Trade meeting, we phoned our informant (a well-known member of that organization) and he said that he "could have been mistaken." Since Mr. Child was reported in the Banner issue of April 10 to have become the campaign manager of the "Aurora Civic Progress Committee" (Liquor and Beer Committee) we cannot see that he has suffered any injury from our informant's inadvertent impression, derived from a crowded meeting where many speakers took part.

We suggest that the Maughan-Rogers letter is an elongated example of the art of quibbling and hair-splitting; and if they can find nothing better to complain of in our writings then, indeed, their cause is in more desperate straits than even we had surmised!

In Permanent Session!

Meanwhile it is being said that certain members of the Liquor and Beer Committee are sitting in almost permanent session, some of whom are comparative newcomers yet want to change the town. During the two years of our actual residence in Aurora we have been happy with its way of life, and we shall do all that we can to keep it that way.

Fine Voluntary Work

An enormous amount of purely voluntary work on behalf of the finest causes is constantly being done without the knowledge of the public at large. Among such work the campaigns for the enlightenment of the public on prevention and elimination of cancer must be accorded a topmost place.

Cancer is the deadly killer, the conquest of which has so far not been attained by medical science. That time will assuredly come, but in the meantime this dread disease is claiming many victims whose untimely fate could have been averted had they treated seriously unusual bodily symptoms.

To create this sense of public awareness of early symptoms, and to seek immediate diagnosis in the prevention of the disease, is the work that has been voluntarily undertaken by the Aurora and district unit of the Canadian Cancer Society, presided over by Mrs. J. P. Crysdale.

Aurora Unit Successes

Mrs. Crysdale informed Aurora News Page that she and those who are working with her are very delighted with the early response and enthusiasm that has greeted the formation of the Aurora and district unit, which took place as recently as March 25. If this enthusiasm can be sustained the objective of $1,000 which these voluntary workers set themselves will be attained. So far over $100 has been collected.

These collections are being made largely through the holding of Trend teas, the first of which was held at the home of Mrs. Charles Peterson on April 9, and proved a very great success.

Future Trend teas will take place as follows: At the homes of Mrs. Fred Moffatt, 121 Yonge street south, on April 18; Mrs. C. R. Boulding, 36 Kennedy street west, on April 25; Mrs. K. Ketchum, St. Andrew's College, April 30; and Mrs. A. Jarvis, Hazelburn farm, Yonge street south, May 9.

Membership fee is $1 annually and donations are being received by Mrs. J. P. Crysdale, 88 Kennedy street west, and Mr. George Fish, manager Imperial Bank, Yonge street. The slogan of the unit is: Fight Cancer, Give Now.

The word "trend," so used above, means: "Treatment, Research, Education, Needs of Cancer Patients' Diagnosis."

New Canadians' Club

We have been asked to report that the next meeting of the Aurora New Canadians' club will be held at Cousins' Dairy on May 1 at 8 p.m. Evening Branch W. A.

Another new organization which originated as recently as January last, and has a membership of over 40, is the Evening Branch of the Woman's Association of the United Church, which is sponsoring the "Robin Hood Cooking School" at The Lions Hall on the evenings of April 29, 30 and May 1.

Officers of the association are: Mrs. C. Peterson, president; Mrs. Kinneer, first vice-pres.; Mrs. McClelland, second vice-pres.; Mrs. Jack Pennock, rec. sec.; Mrs. Walter Johncox, treas.; Mrs. H. Blair, corres. sec.; Mrs. J. Emmons, pianist; Mrs. David Hill, publicity convener; Mrs. H. Graham, activities' con.; Mrs. W. Garfat and Mrs. R. Gundy, programs; Mrs. D. W. Matthew, social convener.

Wonderful Color Film

We have received from our old friend, and former neighbor for some years, Mr. William Ferguson, president of the Richmond Hill Horticultural society, a program featuring an outstanding event that is to take place in the Richmond Hill Lions Community Hall on Thursday, April 24, at 8 p.m. This is a two-hour film in color describing bird life in the most intimate detail, the work of Dr. W. W. Hughes, the distinguished naturalist and photographer.

This color film of bird life is of priceless value and has thus been described: "Dr. Hughes uses a telescopic lens to make his pictures of close-ups with such great skill and artistry that you are left breathless. The whole world of nature is reproduced in startling clarity, suddenly making you realize all the wonder and beauty that is all around us."

An event so outstanding as this happens but seldom, and for that reason we are making it as widely known as possible. There will be no admission charge and visitors will be warmly welcomed to this one-night showing of a color-film unique in the history of the screen. Make a note of it: Richmond Hill Lions Community Hall, Thursday, April 24, at 8 p.m.

The Richmond Hill Horticultural Society has a fine record of successes and its president, Mr. Ferguson, extends a special welcome to members of the Aurora H. S. to be present at the above presentation.

THURSDAY, THE SEVENTEENTH DAY OF APRIL, NINETEEN HUNDRED AND FIFTY-TWO

EDITORIALS

BEGINNING OF A CAMPAIGN

It was on Tuesday afternoon, March 4, that we were offered (in a somewhat mysterious atmosphere) the anonymous advertisement of the so-called "Aurora Civic Progress Committee", which we have simplified in clearer terms as "The Beer and Liquor Committee". It is well known by now that we refused to publish the anonymous advertisement, and for our own personal interest we made notes of the circumstances in which it was offered and declined.

It would make a good story if we published our notes, but we have no intention of so doing unless the opposing force of events leaves us no choice in the matter. Our strong wish is to conduct this campaign entirely free from personalities. We believe that the ultimate issue is of far greater importance than the people who on either side are temporarily engaged in resolving it.

There never was any hesitation in our own mind concerning the issue. We believe that Aurora will be a better place in which to live if there are no liquor and beer outlets established here. The town has made great developments during the 35 years of their absence. We cannot see that its development would be faster or better if the citizens of today reinstated what their predecessors found it wise to revoke.

An individual stand such as ours on a weekly newspaper could seriously cripple its circulation if the majority of its readers took an opposite view. But because of our strong convictions we were prepared to take that risk with Aurora News Pages. It is not the first time we have taken such a risk, and it may not be the last.

At least the citizens of Aurora know where we stand, and did so from the very beginning of this controversial campaign. We are not sitting on the fence, but fighting for what we believe to be the best for the town in which we as a family are happy to live. For such reasons we shall continue the fight.

OPPOSITION GATHERS MOMENTUM

From March 4, when we declined the anonymous advertisement which would have been accepted as legitimate advertising if its sponsors had been willing to supply their names, we have conducted our campaign without external support.

It is true, however, that once we made our views known much moral support did come our way, by telephone calls of approval, and personal calls at our office. Immediate visible proof of the popularity of our stand was the increased sales of our newspaper, which are at an all-time high in Aurora.

On Sunday afternoon, April 6, there came into being a Citizens' Committee, composed of a league of some of the most useful and influential citizens of Aurora, whose adhesion to any cause would give to it a weight of character that even its strongest opponents could not deny.

The number of names listed and published is no more than a nucleus, representing a technical figure for the constitution of a working committee required by law for the appointment of a manager who will have, among other powers, the right of inspecting the names on the petition for a beer warehouse and a liquor store in Aurora.

That was a necessary first step in a concrete campaign to oppose the instalment of either a beer warehouse or a liquor store in Aurora. Had it been necessary at this first step to enlarge the list of signatories, a very large number of supporting names could have been promptly added. The technical requirement having been fulfilled, the immediate step of ratifying it at the town clerk's office was taken.

A Citizens' Committee having appointed its manager and officers, its future work and usefulness will rapidly grow and expand. On all sides opposition to liquor and beer outlets in Aurora gathers momentum and the strength of victory becomes visibly assured.

CRITICISMS JUSTIFIED

It takes courage to attack a Board of which one is a member, and such courage was shown by Councillor Jim Murray at the last meeting of Council. It cannot in the nature of things be a pleasant undertaking at any time to offer criticism; it is much easier as it is often more profitable to offer praise.

From time to time over the past two years we have found it our duty in the public interest to offer criticisms in regard to the lackadaisical manner in which Arena affairs have been handled, and such criticisms have now been officially proven and justified. We regret that such criticisms should ever have been necessary; but they have now been fully confirmed from internal evidence.

The citizens who have a financial interest in the Arena should not forget the services of enlightenment performed by a former member of the Arena Board, namely, Mr. T. F. Swindle, several of whose articles we published in Aurora News Pages. When he resigned last summer we expressed regret that the charges he made in his letter of resignation were not investigated by the council of that time. Not only did the former council ignore Mr. Swindle's charges, but it promptly re-appointed retiring members of the Arena Board.

Councillors Corbett and Murray have now shown substantial reasons why changes in the Arena Board personnel are imperatively necessary. It should not be necessary to labor the point.

COUNCIL SIDELIGHTS

Planning Board Comes Back To Ask For Further $800: A Paragraph Sparked Debate

There was a shoal of business at the last meeting of council. Correspondence and delegations took up a lot of time. Here was a situation where good chairmanship was required, and it was forthcoming. Otherwise proceedings would have run on till the early hours. For the first time in the history of this council the session lasted beyond midnight - for a few minutes only.

Among much interesting business on the agenda there were two outstanding matters, one of them actively discussed and the other not. We refer to the arena board and the mismanagement charged against it, which gave rise to the liveliest attack we have ever heard in the Aurora municipal chambers, possibly with one exception; and the application of the Planning Board for $800 for working expenses in 1952.

The liveliest attack we had previously heard in the Aurora council was provoked by the 1951 hydro building, which of fended, and still offends, the town building regulations. Quiet was restored by an undertaking that the matters in dispute would be settled by the new 1952 council.

Three of the 1951 members who took an aggressive part in opposing the offending hydro structure were returned to office, namely, Deputy-Reeve Murray and Councillors Corbett and Jones. So far they have not made their voices heard in regard to the offending hydro building, so the undertaking that the new 1952 council would deal with this matter remains unfulfilled. Protruding wall and

Planning Board $800

The letter from the Planning board asking for $800 for working expenses in 1952 was not discussed in council. That does not mean that it won't be discussed; it is certain to provoke detailed discussion.

Mayor Rose handed the letter to Reeve Cook, chairman of the finance committee, for a later report. Even as the letter was handed to him Councillor Jim Murray asked why no discussion of its contents could not take place that night?

This further application from the Planning board for funds will place a majority of the members of council right on the spot. Reeve Cook himself, as the records can verify, has often taken a critical attitude to the Planning board, while other members of council have been openly hostile to it, among them Councillor Corbett who is a member of the finance committee.

Other Opinions

Councillor King, the third member of the finance committee, made it clear in his election appeal that the Planning board

LIQUOR AND BEER

Appoint Campaign Manager To Promote Aurora Outlets

In last week's issue of Aurora News Pages we published the names of the number of signatories required by law for the formation of a committee with powers to appoint a manager to represent the large number of Aurora citizens who are opposing the opening of a beer warehouse and liquor store in town, on which a vote is to be taken on Tuesday, May 27.

Among other officers appointed were J. B. Bastedo, chairman; Don Glass, deputy-chairman; Rod Smith, treasurer; and Harold E. Lubbock, former publisher of the Aurora Banner, secretary.

In support of the liquor and beer outlets Mr. A. J. Child has been appointed campaign manager and those signing the official petition in connection with Mr. Child's appointment are reported as follows: A. E. L. Maughan, C. H. Loblaw, H. J. Rogers, S. G. Patrick, A. L. Patrick, J. Marshall, J. A. Ardill, R. H. Ardill, G. Turnbull, R. H. Moore, G. Foster, W. R. McQuade, J. R. Gundy, John W. Bowser, D. W. Richardson, H. E. Sexton, H. E. Bennett, G. H. Stout, George W. Walker, C. J. Chapman, George E. ARENA AFFAIRS

Arena Board To Meet Council, Answer Management Critics

A meeting of the arena board was held in the council chambers on Monday night, April 14, when there were present F. R. Underhill, chairman, A. Cousins, W. H. Stoddart, J. M. Offord and Councillors Murray and Tucker. P. E. Perryman, arena manager, was also present.

The main subject under review was the condition of the arena and the failure of the old board adequately to fulfill its requirements. The complaints made by Councillor Murray at the last meeting of the town council, supported by Councillor Corbett and Councillor Tucker, were not disproved and action was promised to meet them.

As Councillor Corbett is not a member of the arena board he was not present at Monday night's meeting.

The conclusion reached at the end of a lengthy discussion was that the board would seek a meeting with Mayor Rose and members of council in order to present a report. The date for such a meeting will be announced later.

(We were not invited to the above meeting of the arena board nor, as far as we know, were any other members of the press. This neglect on the part of the chairman to invite the attendance of the press, and thereby enable the citizens to know what takes place at board meetings, is itself, we suggest, an instance of mismanagement. We have never received an official invitation to attend arena board meetings, but from two individual members who did so privately. We shall certainly not leave this matter where it is. —Ed. Aurora News Pages.)

should function only as an "advisory board" responsible to council". Councillor Jones took up a more positive position in which he assured electors he was "strongly opposed to any more money being spent on the Planning board."

Councillor Davis pledged himself to the keeping down of town expenditures wherever possible; and the position of Councillor Jim Murray in relation to Planning board expenditures is well known.

Having regard to such positive expressions of disapproval of the Planning board system we fail to see how or why council can commit the town to a further heavy outlay of $800.

The Planning board request will duly come before council for open discussion when Reeve Cook presents his committee's report, and citizens will then learn through Aurora News Pages what members of council decide to do on this subject of constant controversy—the financial cost of keeping the Planning board in existence.

The subject that was pointedly discussed at the last meeting of council was the arena and its management, and it arose from a report from the Sports and Publicity committee presented by chairman Councillor Jim Murray, his committee colleagues being Councillors Corbett and Tucker.

It was a comprehensive report containing two paragraphs that are well worth quoting.
The first read: "If all sports and recreation groups would co-operate and work in closer harmony with the Recreation commission costly overlaps of equipment could be avoided, and if all supplies were bought through the commission the provincial grant could be greatly enlarged."

The recommendation made by Mr. Murray's committee should be taken to heart by all sports
and recreation groups in town, when it is proposed to buy new equipment or expand their services. By co-operating with the Recreation commission savings could be effected and, as the recommendation states, an enlargement of the provincial grant would be brought about.
This would benefit the town in many ways.

The paragraph in the report which sparked a heated discussion read as follows: "We are also inclined to believe that the arena would be managed better if its manager were responsible to the arena, and to the arena only, instead of the present setup of half arena and half recreation."

That paragraph set off a series of arguments that involved most members of council, but chiefly Councillors Murray, Tucker and Corbett. They certainly went to town in scoping what Councillor Murray called an "inactive board" and Councillor Corbett described as "deplorable" conditions at the arena.
The material statements of all three councillors were reported in our council news of last week
so there is no need to repeat them. Furthermore, we understand that chairman Mr. Frank Underhill is calling a meeting of the Arena board to deal with what was said at council. It is clear that matters cannot now be left as they were.

Narrowly Miss Death In Car From Fumes

Carbon monoxide fumes might have very seriously affected members of two O'Reilly families, fifth concession, King township, late last Saturday night,
had not Mr. Thomas O'Reilly, driver of the car, and his brother,
Bill, decided that a cup of coffee
at a Yonge St. restaurant, Oak Ridges, was in order after an evening of bingo at Newmarket.

Stopping their car on the highway, they found Mrs. Thomas O'Reilly and Bill's daughter, Annie, aged 11, unconscious in the rear seat. Mrs. Bill O'Reilly thought they had fallen asleep.
Fumes from a bent tail pipe had seeped through the floor of the car as the party were on their way home, police discovered.

An Army veteran, Tom applied artificial respiration to his wife Norma, who recovered consciousness in a few moments. Annie was taken from the car by her father and given the same treatment by her uncle.

"It was 20 minutes before the girl came to," said her uncle.
"They were a terrible grey color,
and sick, and suffered nervous shock." Their teeth were chattering and they were shaking and cold, he described. Irene O-Reilly, the young girl's mother was able to get out of the car and was not affected until they were on the way to the office of Dr. Crawford Rose, at Aurora, where the two mothers and the girl were treated.

"When we stopped on Yonge
St. we were seven miles from home, and it is very doubtful if my wife and niece would have survived the effects of the gas, had we gone straight home. The doctor said we were lucky," Tom said. Both were in bed the next day.

A slight opening in the rear window on the side where Mrs.
Bill O'Reilly sat was thought to have saved her from unconsciousness. The front vent on Bill's side of the car helped him. Tom had a headache, but he attributed it to natural causes at the time.

IT'S A Woman's World

BY CAROLINE ION

Last week we were steeped in Canadiana. We are conscious of our Canadian heritage. We are aware of the awakened interest of our people in the arts and letters, in music, in drama, in the teaching of crafts and fine workmanship. We are awakened to the panoramic wonders of this country of ours.

First, there was a talk on drama, both legitimate as seen in our theatres and "canned" as we receive it by radio. It was given at the Arts and Letters club, Toronto by C.B.C. drama producer, Andrew Allen. Speaking on culture in Great Britain since the war years, Mr. Allen brought in many references to professional theatre groups, the straw hat circuit and radio in Canada.

He said that it was very significant that last season the stock companies played to large audiences rather than to empty barns. He commented on the fact that such a group had gathered that evening to hear him speak and enter into the lengthy discussion period which followed. Little theatre members associated under the Central Ontario Drama League, with their friends filled the auditorium, asked questions; listened as one completely fascinated to all that was said and went home newly enthused.

Mr. Allen spoke of Lister Sinclair's play, "Socrates" and the excellent reception it had received. He said that new writers were needed and that in radio they attempted to give every encouragement to the Canadian artist whether he be script writer, musician, composer, actor or playwright.

This same interest in things Canadian was seen last week when a responsive and enthusiastic audience gathered at the Newmarket-Sutton Area High school for the last in the Canadian Concert Association series. Two young Canadian artists of exceptional talent were heard in recital. Combined with their sensitive interpretative powers was a sincerity of approach and outstanding stage presence.

As one member of the local concert association executive said, "Our aim in establishing the series was two-fold. First to provide Canadian artists with audiences in their own country and second, to bring Canadian musical talent to Newmarket." We agree wholeheartedly that in both these objectives they have succeeded. For, no artist could have complained about the enthusiasm given each guest performer at this season's concerts. Many in this district have had three musical evenings which they would otherwise have been unable to enjoy.

Ryerson Institute of Technology is feeling the pressure of increased interest in the crafts by Canadians of all ages. A friend who visited the institute recently said that so many are applying for instruction in weaving that the number of looms is being doubled. Visiting the arts and weaving departments, a group from town saw that one of the finest woven articles on display was a couch throw, the work of Mrs. D. H. Bales, Gormham St.

First, they visited the drafting room where the weavers work out their designs at the drafting tables. These are then carried to the looms where under their imaginative interpretations the designs are translated into the reality of beautiful materials.

The students are taught to do everything independently with free rein being given to encourage creative ability. They design the hassock or foot stool. Make the piece of furniture in the wood working shop. Design their material, weave it and then upholster the article.

Personality plays a great part in weaving as in all crafts. One person takes a colour and is unable to do anything with it. Another using the same colour produces something very beautiful. Here at Ryerson Institute is seen a re-awakening to the need for fine craftsmanship. Here the opportunity is being provided for Canadian young people for self expression in distinctly Canadian ways. Whether they choose one of the cottage arts

DAVIDSON—UNDERHILL.

Aurora United church was the setting for the wedding of Carol Genelle Underhill, daughter of Mrs. Underhill and the late Dr. Eugene Underhill, and Dr. Jack Willis Davidson, Toronto, son of Mrs. Cecil Quantrell, Oshawa.

Rev. Harvey Howey officiated against white snapdragons, stocks and carnations. Cedric Willis was organist and June Kowalchuk sang.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Dr. Frederic Underhill, wore a gown of hand-appliqued net over white faille and crinoline. The strapless bodice was applied in lace and the short skirted jacket featured a portrait neckline. A matching lace Juliet cap held her fingertip veil of French tulle illusion and she carried freesia, lily of the valley, and gladiolus petals.

Jeanne Woolfrey, maid of honor, and bridesmaids Eva Lucas and June Caulfield, were gowned alike in ball-length blue point d'esprit over net and faille. They wore matching hats trimmed with violet ribbon and carried nosegays of peonies, pink roses and sweet peas. Dr. James Cotquhoun was groomsmen and Eugene Underhill, Raymond Quantrell, Dr. Edward Beaton and Dr. Frederic Eggleton ushered.

At the Legion Hall, the bride's mother received in blue lace and crepe with navy accessories and a corsage of orchids, assisted by the groom's mother in French champagne lace and sheer with pink orchids.

For their honeymoon to Georgia, the bride travelled in a white suit, with a yellow straw hat, black accessories and red velvet top coat. They will make their home in Georgia.

DEVINS—SWINDLE

Attended by many guests, the marriage of Miss Audrey Joan Swindle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Swindle, to Mr. William John Devins, son of Dr. Audrey Devins and the late Dr. Clifford Devins, all of Aurora, took place in the United church in Aurora. Rev. H. Howey performed the ceremony, with Mr. I. Harris at the organ, and Mrs. Jean Doolittle as soloist.

The bride wore a gown of snowdrop white lace and net over heavy satin, featuring a moulded basque, long light sleeves, and a round neckline set off by a sheer yoke effect, and tiny scalloped collar. A tapered lace peplum fell over the very full gathered net skirt, which ended in a chapel train. Her veil fell from a bonnet brim of net over satin, and her flowers were white gardenias and carnations in cascade effect.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by Mrs. Jackie Johnson, matron of honor, Mrs. Donna Woolley, Miss Jean Lockie, Mrs. June Swindle and Miss Elizabeth Devins. They wore grey net over flame coral satin, with braided halos caught with red carnations at the back, and carried cascades of red carnations and tulips.

Mr. Donald Brown was best man, and the ushers were Messrs. Emerson Jennings, Walter Swindle, David Tolman and Robert Thomas.

At the reception held at the Graystones, the bride's mother received in a gown and hat of soft blue with corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother chose a navy taffeta gown with white accessories, and corsage of white lilies. On their return from the United States, Mr. and Mrs. Devins will live in Aurora.

Nimmo-Phillips

Hope United church was the scene of the first wedding in 25 years, Saturday, April 5, when a double ring ceremony was performed for the marriage of Eleanor Goldie Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Phillips, and niece of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Crook of Hope, to John Arthur Howard Nimmo, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Nimmo, of King.

The vows were performed by the uncle of the groom, Rev. Alexander Nimmo, minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Wingham, and Rev. Percy J. Lambert, minister of Hope church. Mrs. Gordon Orr was organist and the soloist was Miss Joan Scott of Toronto.

Standards of pink snapdragon and white carnations decorated the setting when Mr. Wilbert Crook gave his niece in marriage. The bride was gracefully gowned in white satin, with figured lace over net, made with Chinese neckline, lace bodice and long lace sleeves. The full length skirt was styled with panels of lace and net. Her finger tip tulle veil fell from a lace cap and her shower bouquet was arranged with white sweetpeas, and red roses circled with hyacinth petals.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Allan Jones, was matron of honor wearing orchid taffeta made with matching lace over-trim on part of the skirt. She wore a matching taffeta headpiece and carried orchid, peach and pink carnations.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. Bruce Phillips, the bride's sister-in-law, and Miss Jean Orr, her cousin. Their gowns were styled alike in soft green strapless taffeta, with short bolero jackets, short sleeves and matching long gloves. They wore matching crown caps with pleated edges and carried orchid, yellow, carnation chrysanthemums and carnations. The junior bridesmaids were Carol Ball and Rhonda Phillips, lovely in their long yellow taffeta gowns, matching headbands with roses and spring flower nosegays.

The groomsmen were Robert Orr of Toronto and the ushers were the groom's cousin, Stewart Nimmo of Wingham and Reginald McCracken, of Toronto, uncle of the groom.

After the ceremony a reception was held at Maple Masonic hall where the bride's mother received in navy blue pleated crepe, navy accessories, and harmonizing blue and crimson corsage. The groom's mother wore navy with matching hat trimmed with pink roses and corsage of red and white roses. Mrs. Crook, the bride's aunt, chose lime green, black accessories and corsage of yellow roses. After the wedding supper the bride donned her travelling costume, a navy blue tailored suit, navy accessories and white hat with navy trim. A large shoulder corsage of pale blue and white carnations completed her attire. The happy couple motored to Detroit and other cities in the United States, returning through Niagara Falls. They are making their home on concession 4, King.

MRS. LAURA ROLLING, CORRESPONDENT, PHONE KING 8

The little barber shop that was moved and changed into a small library in King Memorial Park, won't fill the bill even as a temporary arrangement. That is, if the latest contribution of 300 books from the home of the late Aubrey Davis of Newmarket is to find a place in the small building.

They were donated to the library this week by Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Davis, who invited King librarians to their Kinghorn home to make the selection. Miss Marjorie Jarvis, chief librarian, made the choice from hundreds of books. While the book shelves at King are well stocked the accommodation is such that nearly 500 volumes are now in storage. These books will be on the shelves if a community hall is built with a library incorporated in the plan.

The Davis collection is a fine acquisition. There are histories of Canada, biography, travel, good fiction, and a wonderful book for children. There are some of the best collections of young people's poetry, stories on music, art and beautifully illustrated books of "The Bible in Art", a collection of famous paintings on Bible subjects, and Holo's paintings of the Life of Jesus, copied from water colors, which were first painted in Palestine. There are two volumes written by Winston Churchill.

"The conservation survey of King Township", made by the late Aubrey Davis and his associates, and a volume, "The Davis Family and the Leather Industry", by Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Davis, are also included.

"Had it not been for contributions of book collections we would not have the library it is today," commented Miss Jarvis.

New Member in Wrestling Group

John Risenborough, 9-12, is the latest addition to King City Wrestling Club of which the junior members are Bill Patton, Rodney Bell, Johnny Walker, Richard Chaplin, Garry Galloway and Ron Fox. The new member was so pleased with the first workout given by coach Bob McLeod, who commended him on his exercises, he immediately wrote a letter to his grandfather, Mr. George Priest of London, England, describing the club and the requirements he was entrusted to carry out. Grandfather Priest is interested in this type of sport, being a boxing fan, he will appreciate his grandson's enthusiasm. A step closer to a charter for King Community Association is seen as the document awaits signatures before being presented to the Ontario provincial secretary for approval by the government. Embodying the terms and by-laws of the charter, its approval will empower the organization to build a community hall. Secretary D. M. Findlay has notified all persons whose names are to be attached to the document. They are Mrs. Cora Specht and Mrs. Rhoda Jarvis of King Women's Institute; Geo. Brown and W. E. Barker, representing the Lake Marie and King Athletic Assoc.; George Harvey, scout master; Joe McGrath, King Legion president; Mrs. Beryl Fleet, Legion auxiliary president; John L. Grew, library board chairman; Donald M. Findlay, secretary; M. H. Bell, treasurer, and R. D. McLeod. Mrs. Specht is chairman of the organization and will call a meeting of the association after the Easter holiday week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Benson and son Clay are settled in their new home, King sideroad east. Offer Community Hall Advice

Two representatives from the provincial department of education community programs and recreation branch met recently with Mrs. Ivan Specht, chairman of King Community Association, regarding a suitable type of community hall. They had come at the request of the association to offer advice toward the project.

They favored a two-story building as sketched by George Harvey, a member of the association. They emphasized the importance of "keeping the building conservative", at the same time using the best material and equipment. The better the construction, the less the cost of maintenance and upkeep. It was pointed out that 10 per cent of the cost of the building will represent the yearly upkeep which is a big factor in the ultimate outcome of a project of this kind. They advised the employment of an architect.

They also favored the proposal of the association to finance the cost of the building at the outset.

The above findings were reported to King City W.I. by Mrs. Specht who suggested the branch consider application of a portion of its community hall trust fund, if this were expedient. No action was taken for the present.

Charivari For Newlyweds

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Julian were awakened from sleep last Thursday night when 20 friends from King and Woodbridge districts converged upon their home on Patton street with the screech of horse-fiddles and shot gun blasts, to greet them as bride and groom of two weeks. When the noise died down, everyone was invited inside, the groom made the customary gift of money to captain Allan O'Brien and refreshments were served to end a pleasant but somewhat late gathering. The traditional practice is to add donations to the groom's sum of money and when a suitable home gift can be selected, a formal presentation is made to the newlyweds at a community dance.

Allan O'Brien and his teammates will conduct the affair. Mr. and Mrs. Julian, (Mary Taggart, Vaughan township) are settled in a very comfortable but small house until they build a larger dwelling on the same site.

Tenders must be received by April 13, and will give quotations on fully-equipped machinery. They must have 100-horse-power, 12-ply tire sets, tool set, booster steering, hydraulic brake, all lights and defroster, 4 chains, separate plow wings and complete paint job, to include the name "Township of King".
